CONDITIONS OF SALE.

- I. The highest bidder to be the buyer; and if any dispute arise between bidders, the lot so disputed shall be immediately put up again, provided the Auctioneer cannot decide the said dispute.
- II. No person to advance less than 1s.; above five pounds 2s. 6d.; and so on in proportion.
- III. In the case of lots upon which there is a reserve, the Auctioneer shall have the right to bid on behalf of the Seller.
- IV. The purchasers to give in their names and places of abode, and to pay down 10s. in the pound, if required, in part payment of the purchase-money; in default of which the lot or lots purchased to be immediately put up again and re-sold.
- V. The lots to be taken away at the buyer's expense immediately after the conclusion of the sale; in default of which Messrs. SOTHEY, WILKINSON & HODGE will not hold themselves responsible if lost, stolen, damaged or otherwise destroyed, but they will be left at the sole risk of the purchaser. If, at the expiration of ONE WEEK after the conclusion of the sale, the books or other property are not cleared or paid for, they will then be catalogued for immediate sale, and the expenses (the same as if re-sold) will be added to the amount at which the books were bought. Messrs. SOTHEY, WILKINSON & HODGE will have the option of re-selling the lots uncleared, either by public or private sale, without any notice being given to the defaulter.
- VI. All the books are presumed to be perfect unless otherwise expressed; but if, upon collating, any should prove defective, the purchaser will be at liberty to take or reject them, provided they are returned within ONE WEEK after the conclusion of the sale, when the purchase-money will be returned.
- VII. The sale of any book or books is not to be set aside on account of any worm-holes, stained or short leaves of text or plates, want of list of plates, or blank leaves, or on account of the publication of any subsequent volume, supplement, appendix or plates. All the manuscripts, autographs, all magazines and reviews, all books in lots, and all tracts in lots or volumes, will be sold with all faults, imperfections, and errors of description. The sale of any illustrated book, lot of prints or drawings, is not to be set aside on account of any error in the enumeration of the numbers stated or error of description.
- VIII. No IMPERFECT BOOK will be taken back, unless a note accompanies each book, stating its imperfections, with the number of lot and date of the sale at which the same was purchased.
- IX. To prevent inaccuracy in the delivery, and inconvenience in the settlement of the purchases, no lot can on any account be removed during the time of sale.
- X. Upon failure of complying with the above Conditions, the money required and deposited in part of payment shall be forfeited; and if any loss is sustained in the re-selling of such lots as are not cleared or paid for, all charges on such re-sale shall be made good by the defaulters at this sale.

Gentlemen who cannot attend the Sale may have their Commissions faithfully executed by their humble servants,

Lot 1.

DAMSON (Patrick; Archbishop of St. Andrews) The Recantation of Maister Patrick Adamsone, sometime Archbishop of Saint Androwes in Scotlande, morocco, gilt leaves 1598

** The exceedingly scarce FIRST EDITION. Without place or printer's name. The three pages which follow the title of this exceedingly rare tract are occupied by The Printer to the Reader, the Recantation itself, dated April 8, 1591, contains 11 pp. and the last four leaves of the volume have "Maister Patrike Adamsones owen answere and refutation of the Buke falslie called the Kings Declaration." The last page reads: "I Maister Patrick Adamson, declaires that this confession and declaration befor written, is my awen confession, given with my heart, and subscrivit with my hande, Befoir the witnessis under wittē, under-subscribing with inc at my request and desire, At Sanctandrof, the tent day of Iuni (June?), the zeir of God j<sup>m</sup> v<sup>c</sup> four score ellewin." Adamson published a poem on the birth of the son of Mary Queen of Scots, James VI, who was described in the title page as Prince of Scotland, England, France and Ireland. For this act of indiscretion the Archbishop was imprisoned for six months. Adamson was chaplain to the Regent Morton before his promotion to the archiepiscopal see.

concernynge the most sacred sacrament of the blessed body and bloude of our saviour Christ, compiled by John Calvine. And translated into Lattin by Laciuss a mā of lyke excellencie, and now last of all, translated into Englishe by a faythfull brother . . . Wher unto is added the order that the church and congregatiō of Christe in Denmarke doth use. Set forthe by Myles Coverdale, black letter, printed abroad (s. d. n. a.)—HERE BEGYNNEETH A BOOKE, called the faule of the Romyshe church, wyth all the abhominations, wherby everye man maye knowe and perceave the dyversite of it betwene ye primative church, of the whiche our soverayne Lorde and kynge is the supreme head, and the malignant church, asunder, black letter, secretly printed in England (n.p.n.ord.)—ASKEW (Anne) THE FYRST EXAMINACION of the worthy servaunt of god, Maisters (Mistress) Anne Askewe, the yōger daughter of Syr William Askewe knyght of Lyncolne shyre: lately martyred in Smithfield, by the Romyshe Popes upholders. Anne Askewe stode fast by thys Verite of God to the ende—The latter Examinacion, of the worthe servaunte of God, masters (mistress) Anne Askewe, the yonger daughter of Syr Wylliam Askewe knight of Lincoln shyre, lately martyred in Smythfelde by the wycked Synagoge of Anti-Christ—THE BALLADE whych Anne Askewe made and sange, whan she was in Newgate—The Sum of the Actes and decrees made by diverse bisshops of rome. (Colophon) Translated out of Latyn into Englysh. And Imprinted by Thomas gybson. All bound in 1 volume, black morocco, gilt leaves 1549, &c.

* * * From the Heber Library, A MOST RARE COLLECTION of "the Boke of Barthā" (The Book of Bertram) there is no copy of the edition of 1549 in the British Museum but only that of 1624. The little volume (24 ll. of text including title) was evidently very popular, as no less than six editions are recorded by Lowndes up to 1624. The 1623 edition was also reprinted with additions in 1686. The second "Treatise," of 44 ll. including the title-page, by John Calvin was PRINTED ABROAD, and is the EXCESSIVELY RARE EDITIO PRINCEPS, before Coverdale's name was introduced on the title-page. Lowndes was unable to refer to the sale of a copy. The portion by Miles Coverdale commences on D 6 (verso). The "Faule of the Romyshe Church" comprises A—C in eights, with the original blank leaf C.8. Only very few copies are known. This little volume was printed secretly in England after the assumption by Henry VIII of the title of Head of the Church. The Askew tract: the "fyrst" and "latter" "examinacion" is not only the original and professedly personal account by Anne Askew of her trials on account of her religious opinions, but is a distinct and apparently earlier impression than that in the Huth Library, which is said to be unknown to bibliographers. At the end we have "The Ballade, wych Anne Askewe made and sange, when she was in Newgate," one of the most interesting productions of this particular kind in the English language. Finally, of the little tract "Sum of the Actes," &c. the only other copies known are in the British Museum and at the Lambeth Palace Library.

"Knowing that you intended going to Scotland almost immediately after I recd. your kind letter and present, I have delayed answering the former until now. Accept my warmest and most sincere thanks for the private copy of Ion which I shall always be more proud of, and value more highly than any book I possess. For the kind and flattering terms in which you speak of my works—my sketches I should rather say—in the letter which accompanies it, how can I ever thank you? Believe me my dear Sir that I speak most unfeignedly and honestly, when I assure you that nothing that has ever occurred to me in the course of my brief career, has afforded me half so much satisfaction and pleasure. I acknowledge that I do feel proud of my little productions when I reflect upon the glowing terms in which you have expressed your opinion of them and remember that they were the means of creating a friendship between us. That this friendship may last as long as we do, and that you may never have cause to regret the having formed, is my earnest hope and belief. I have too strong an appreciation of the meaning of the word 'friend' to make many new ones, and this perhaps is the cause of my being so warmly and affectionately attached to the few to honor whom I designate by the name. There is no one to whom every sentiment of respect and admiration (existing long, very long before I knew you personally) bind me more strongly than yourself. Although I am almost disposed to fear that the kindness of heart which you have discovered in my writings is the mere reflection of your own good feeling and worth, I am very proud of your discovery, and anxious to improve upon it."

- 67 DICKENS (C.) A. L. s. 2 pp. 8vo, to Mr. Overs, Broadstairs, Kent, Fifth September, 1843

"I received your five pound note quite safely, this morning. I take it for granted that if you could not comfortably afford to return it, you would never dream of sending it to me.

I shall be glad to hear whether you do anything satisfactory with Mr. Young. Don't you think you could suggest to him the feasibility of your writing some original articles in the paper? It is much read by working men in London. Couldn't you hit upon some subject of interest to them (and consequently to other people of liberal opinions) and suggest it to Mr. Young? I fear—this is strictly between ourselves—that your Guildhall attendance may turn out unprofitable in more ways than one. But be as patient as you can, because the difficulty of holding any moderate recompense in that way (I mean the newspaper way) would be nothing to the difficulty of seizing it."

- 68 DICKENS (C.) A. L. s. 2 pp. 23 April, 1844, to James Thomson, Esq.

"In the execution of a peculiar faculty for which I am distinguished in an eminent degree, I quite forgot when we spoke about those tickets, that Mrs. Dickens had invited some friends at home for the very day to which they refer. In the modesty of my mind, I should not have mentioned this circumstance, but for her special desire that you should know why she is unable to avail herself of your kindness."

- 69 DICKENS (C.) A. L. s. (initials) Naples, 17 February, 1845, to Mitton, A SPLENDID LETTER, consisting of 4 pp. 4to size (most closely written), ENTIRELY DESCRIPTIVE OF HIS TRAVELS IN ITALY

"I am as badly off in this place as in America, beset by visitors at all times and seasons, and forced to dine out every day . . . I have got to understand the low life of Naples (among the Fishermen and Idlers), almost as well as I do the do. of my own Country, always excepting the language, which is very peculiar and extremely difficult, and would require a year's constant practice at least. It is no more like Italian than English is to Welsh, and as they don't say half of what they mean, but make a wink or a kick stand for a whole sentence, it is a marvel to me how they comprehend each other . . ."

Here follows a long and minute description of Naples, the Bay, Herculaneum, Pompeii, &c. the letter concludes with a full descriptive account of his ascent of Vesuvius

" . . . Yesterday, leaving at four o'clock, we began (a small party of six) the ascent of Mount Vesuvius, with six horses saddled, an armed soldier for a guard, and twenty-two guides. The latter rendered necessary by the severity of the weather, which is greater than has been known for twenty years, and has covered the precipitous part of the mountain with deep snow, the surface of which is glassed with one smooth sheet of ice from the top of the cone to the bottom . . . It was an inexpressibly lovely night, without a cloud; and when the day was quite gone, the moon (within a few hours of the full) came proudly up, showing the sea, and the Bay of Naples, and the whole country in such majesty as no words can express. We rode to the beginning of the snow and then dismounted . . . The ascent was as steep as this line—very nearly perpendicular. We were all tumbling at every step, and looking up and seeing the people in advance tumbling over one's very head; and looking down and seeing hundreds of feet of smooth ice below, was, I must confess, anything but agreeable . . . By prodigious exertions we passed the region of snow and came into that of fire, desolate and awful, you may well suppose. It was like working one's way through a dry waterfall, with every mass of stone burnt and charred into enormous cinders, and smoke and sulphur bursting out of every chink and crevice, so that it was difficult to breathe. High before us, bursting out of a hill at the top of the mountain, the fire was pouring out, reddening the night with flames, blackening it with smoke, and spotting it with red hot stones and cinders that fell down again in showers. At every step, everybody fell, now into a hot chink, now into a bed of ashes, now over a mass of cindered iron, and the confusion in the darkness (for the smoke obscured the moon in this part), and the quarrelling and shouting, and roaring of the guides; and the waiting every now and then for somebody who was not to be found, and was supposed to have tumbled into some pit or other, made such a scene of it as I can give you no idea of . . . The only way to get down was for the Guides to make a chain, holding by each other's hands, and beat a narrow track in it, into the snow below, with their sticks. My two unfortunate ladies were taken out of their litters again, with half a dozen men hanging on to each, to prevent their falling forward, and we began to descend this way. It was like a tremendous dream. It was impossible to stand, and the only way to prevent oneself from going sheer down the precipice, every time one fell, was to drive one's stick into one of the holes the Guides had made, and hold on by that. Nobody could pick one up, or stop one, or render one the least assistance. Now, conceive my horror, when this Mr. Le Gios, I have mentioned, being on one side of Georgina and I on the other, suddenly staggers away from the narrow path on to the smooth ice—gives us a jerk—lets go—and plunges head-foremost down the smooth ice, into the black night, five hundred feet below! Almost at the same instant a man far behind, carrying a light basket on his head with some of our spare cloaks in it, misses his footing and rolls down in another place; and after him, rolling over and over like a black bundle, goes a boy, shrieking, as nobody but an Italian can shriek, until the breath is tumbled out of him. . . .”

- 70 DICKENS (C.) A. L. s. 1 $\frac{1}{4}$  p. 4to, Peschiere, Genoa, April Twelfth 1845, to Charles Black, Esq. 4to letters are scarce

“As you were kind enough to mediate between Mr. Scott and me; and furthermore as I don't know Mr. Scott's address; I trouble you with a Bill on Torlonias for the price of the Merry Boy. It will be necessary for Mr. Scott to write his name across the back, under that of our distinguished countryman, the author of a Christmas Carol in prose and other works. Pray convey to Mr. Scott my best regards and thanks, and couple Mrs. Dickens's name with mine when you call me to the recollection of his good wife.

It was my intention, as you may remember, to have sent you this from Florence; but on enquiry at that place (what a charming place it is!) I found it would be easier to make the remittance from Genoa. That last mentioned a/- stands pretty much where it did. The Del Mes are very anxious that I should impress upon you how much they hope to see you, if, on your return you come this way. You will find them at the top of the Palazzo Rosso in an apartment which is a very charming one when you get up to it.

I heard last from Forster a few days ago. He is better and able to take a carriage airing now and then. But he is still very ill. I have strenuously urged him to come over here, and return with us through Switzerland. Macready is making one vast Tom Tidler's ground of the provinces in general, and picking up gold and silver in great quantities. Mrs. Macready is full of compassion for him in consequence; and writes piously.

We found the children well and happy; and the house very comfortable after all our wanderings. Gwilt's architecture looms large and grim from a table in the Sala. I will exert myself to the utmost to find somebody coming to Rome who will take charge of it, and if my blushes for having twice left it behind, should have any effect upon the cover, you will find it neatly bound in red by the time it reaches you.

I hope you have seen Parke's address to the Murderous Quaker, in passing sentence, also Fonblanque's article on the probability of that miserable culprit having imitated Belaney. I thought the first quite magnificent in its stern and just indignation, after the dispassionate charge (it is vigorous English too; witness the use of the word 'tearing'); and the second quite unanswerable in all its wise positions.

If you can find time in the midst of the Italians to acknowledge the safe receipt of the Bill, I shall be glad to know that it has not fallen into the possession of a nefarious Roman. Kate and Georgy send their best loves to Mrs. Black and Miss Elderton. I beg to forward the next thing to it. And uniting with them in all cordial regards to yourself, am always,”

- 71 DICKENS (C.) A. L. s. 2 $\frac{1}{2}$  pp. 8vo, Devonshire Terrace, Tuesday, March Eleventh, 1851, to D. Wilson

“The maid will come down tomorrow, and I shall be very happy on her behalf to avail myself of your most obliging proffer. But I am so anxious that Mrs. Dickens should begin with a favourable impression of Malvern, that I am so certain of the impossibility of engendering that impression if she be on any visit, or in any house but our own, (from what I have lately observed when we have been staying in the country houses even of intimate friends) that I am obliged, however reluctantly, to decline your hospitable proposal in relation to ourselves.

The Maid will perfectly understand her errand, and will be sure (with your kind help) to make the wisest arrangement that the circumstances will admit of. She is well used to such arrangements, and knows from me what we want."

- 72 DICKENS (Charles) A. L. s. 2 pp. 8vo, Guild of Literature and Art, 10, Lancaster Place, Strand, Saturday, November 8th, 1851, to Robert Tucker, Esq.; envelope also signed

"I have the greatest pleasure in acknowledging the receipt of your obliging letter, and in begging you to convey my cordial thanks to the professional Members of the Bristol Academy for the Promotion of the Fine Arts for the gratifying recognition with which they have honored my friends and myself.

It may save you some trouble if I undertake to convey to the gentlemen whom I represent, the terms of the Resolution with which you have favored me. I cannot answer for them, as to their ability to pay a visit to the Institution, but I fear I can answer for myself; my time being so constantly occupied with a variety of business-details on these occasions, that I have rarely half an hour for any recreative purpose but rest."

- 73 DICKENS (Charles) A. L. s. (initials) 3 pp. 8vo, Villa du Camp de droite, Boulogne, Saturday, Twenty Third September, 1854, to Thomas Mitton

"I do not at all anticipate coming to London until I return for the winter. Wills having been here for a fortnight, I have had ample opportunity to confer with him on Household Words business (besides exchanging a parcel every week) and it must be something quite unexpected, that would take me across the channel.

Therefore you cannot do better than arrange to come alone, which is perfectly easy.

The weather has turned quite cold here (which is a great thing, after the hot summer) and I hope it may be bright and dry when you come. You will probably find Beard here—and perhaps Egg the artist, who is a very nice little fellow."

- 74 DICKENS (Charles) A. L. s. 3 pp. 8vo, Tavistock House, Friday, July Tenth 1857, to W. J. Clement, Esq.

"Your note received this morning, amazes me. Within two or three days after the receipt of the poor boy's Manuscript, I returned it to you in a letter replying to yours on the subject. I cannot quite accurately recall whether I was here or at Gravesend; but I strongly incline to the belief that I was at the latter place. In that case, I posted the letter with my own hand; but in any case I most positively know that I dispatched my reply to you and sent the MS. with it.

The exact words of my answer I have necessarily forgotten; having an immense correspondence and a constantly occupied mind. I remember that I had felt in a difficulty what to write, without encouraging hopes that might prove to be fallacious. I believe I told you in effect that there were many little points of merit in the juvenile production, but that I saw no signs in it of the author being able to make an advance on a very general kind of ability, or being able to do more than many young men do—not very successfully. I hinted at the difference between what is clever and meritorious among private friends, and what is addressed to the Public—who have nothing whatever to do with the circumstances under which any work is produced, and can only be expected to accept it for its own sake. I have an impression that I finished by saying that if the young man should ever wish to offer anything to Household Words, I would read it myself if you would send it to me.

Pray understand that I have not the slightest doubt of this letter's having been posted; and that I have a conviction very little short of certainty, that I posted it myself.

I must indeed have changed very much, and cast my nature as a snake does his skin, if I could have neglected you for whom I have a truly affectionate regard, and whom I first knew through our poor dear Talfourd."

- 75 DICKENS (Charles) A. L. s.  $1\frac{1}{2}$  pp. 8vo, Angel Hotel, Doncaster, Tuesday, Fifteenth September, 1857, to Hall, his publisher, but the name of Mr. Hall has been obliterated

"I like your notion of the Edition, and as soon after next Monday (when I return), as you please, let us have a quiet day at Gad's Hill and go into the "facts and figures". In the meantime I have begged Forster to see Chapman, and so to pave the way as that you and Chapman shall have the road open for making all arrangements. I have told Forster that Bradbury and Evans's name must be on all the series as well as Chapman's and that I must have Band E in all the accounts and all the business, and must have (and will have) no Chapman delays and shortcomings from first to last, but most wholly extinguish the same.

The Child's History looks clearly and plainly readable, and I think the proposed price sufficiently cheap.

I am much interested in knowing what your H. W. notion is. That too must be propounded at Gad's Hill."

- 76 DICKENS (C.) A. L. s.  $3\frac{1}{2}$  pp. 8vo, Tavistock House, Tavistock Square, London, W.C., Tuesday, March 16th, 1858, to his publisher Mr. Evans

"I want you to consider this letter as being strictly private and confidential between you and me. I am anxious to have your soundest opinion on the point it refers to you, and I shall give it great weight—though I do not of course, pledge myself to be bound by it.

The Reading idea that I had, some time ago, sticks to me. Let me read where I will, an effect is produced which seems to belong to nothing else; and the number of people who want to come, cannot by any means be got in. I have in my mind this project:—

After reading in London on the 15th of next month for the Benefit of the Children's Hospital, to announce by advertisement (what is quite true), that I cannot answer the applications that are made to me, so numerous are they, and that compliance with ever so few of them is impossible. That therefore I have resolved upon a course of readings both in town and country, and that those in London will take place at St. Martin's Hall on certain evenings—four or six Thursdays—through May, and just into June.

Then, in August, September and October, in the Eastern Counties, the West of England, Lancashire, Yorkshire, and Scotland, I should read from 35 to 40 times. At each place where there was a great success, I should myself announce that I should come back, on the turn of Christmas, to read a new Christmas Story written for the purpose, and which I should first read in London. Unless I am gigantically mistaken—by March or April a very large sum of money would be cleared—and Ireland would be still untouched; not to speak of America, where I believe I could make (if I could resolve to go there) ten thousand pounds.

Now, the question I want your opinion on, is this:—Assuming these hopes to be well-grounded, would such an use of the personal (I may almost say affectionate) relations which subsist between me and the public, and make my standing with them very peculiar, at all effect my position with them as a writer? Would it be likely to have any influence on my next book? If it had any influence at all, would it be likely to be of a weakening or a strengthening kind?

(It is not to the purpose of this point, to remark that I should confide the whole of the business arrangements to Arthur Smith. I merely mention it, that you may have the whole case)."

- 77 DICKENS (C.) A. L. s. 3 pp. 8vo, Tuesday, January 18th, 1859, to J. P. Knight, Esq., R.A., with envelope also signed.

"I regret that I cannot have the pleasure of accepting the MS. I return with this, for Household Words. Although it is very good as an early effort, and although I observe some passages in it which express a lively fancy (as in the little description of the rain-drops falling into the puddles), it is too much about too little. And I would particularly recommend the young writer to consider that the old soldiers of Napoleon the Great have become most terrible veterans by this time. They really have made such extensive campaigns and gone through such an immense number of evolutions, in literature, with French and English, that nothing but their having something very new to achieve, can justify these ancient pensioners in coming out of the Hospital for Invalids. Now, there is no individuality about M. Noel—no quaint touch of observation or imagination to single him out from the rest who have been doing literary duty these forty years. And he is so very long in going to tell that story of his, that I doubt his having much to tell.

I trouble you with these few words, because I am really anxious to explain to you why I cannot gratify myself by retaining the manuscript. Honestly, it would be a real satisfaction to me—a genuine pleasure—if I could reasonably do so.

I cannot, of course, undertake to pronounce oracularly that the writer could do better; but I think she could."

78 DICKENS (C.) A. L. s. (initials) 2 pp. 8vo, Gad's Hill Place, September 16th, 1859.

"My Dear Wilkie,

Just a word, to say that I have received yours, and that I look forward to the Reunion on Tuesday—when I hope to have the satisfaction of recounting to you the plot of a Play that has been laid before me for commending advice (by your friend Saunders the weak).

I am charmed with the . . . O why was she stopped! ask her flinty mother from me. Why, why didn't she let her convert somebody! And here the question arises—Did she secretly convert the landlord?

Ditto to what you say respecting the Great Eastern. I went right up to London Bridge by the boat that day, on purpose that I might pass her. I thought her the ugliest and most un-ship like thing these eyes ever beheld. As to the Times account—clearly a foregone. Do. You should hear Hollingshead on that matter. But the Director's Body, with Mr. Ingram at their head, are all jobbers and Bad Ones. And you may depend upon it that if that ship don't get into trouble on the wild Atlantic—it won't be their fault. I wouldn't go to sea in her—shiver my old timbers and rouse me up with a monkey's tail (Man-of-War metaphor) not to chuck a biscuit into Davy Jones's weather eye, and see double with my own old top-lights.

79 DICKENS (C.) A. L. s. 3 pp. 8vo, Paris, Rue du Faubourg St. Honore, 27, December 7th, 1862, to E. S. Dallas (rather ragged at the sides).

"Your affecting letter has made a great impression on me, and fills me with anxiety for our dear good Elliotson. The warmest affection for him and admiration of him, I have had for years, and no circumstances could intensify those feelings; but you present him in a light so very touching and distressing, that I find it hard to recover my composure and see our way clearly.

And yet the main part of your letter is not new to me. From Chauncy Tounshend (with whom I have, habitually, relations as confidential as those with which you and I now stand) I received an account a year and a half ago of Elliotson's despondency and tendency to suicide. We observed him carefully, and the darkest part of the cloud passed. But neither Tounshend nor I supposed his professional or other worldly affairs to be as bad as you describe them to be.

I am not sanguine as to my power of persuasion with the sisters. But this does not in the least influence me as to my readiness to undertake the task of mediating between Elliotson and them. I think I might be able to open the mediation by addressing a kind of letter to them proposing to see them, which they could scarcely throw aside.

It is unnecessary, I am sure, to tell you that I will do anything, and that I cannot do too much for the good, kind, noble, admirable fellow. So I at once pass on to my plans—as they stood, that is to say, before I read your letter this morning. Understand that a word from you by telegraph, would—without at all alarming me or leading me to suppose that anything worse had happened—bring me to meet you in London, by the next Express Train.

On Monday the 22nd, I leave here with my daughter and her Aunt, and go straight home to Gad's Hill for Christmas. (Gad's Hill is within 30 miles of London, and little more than an hour's journey by North Kent Railway). There I remain until about the 8th of January, when I return here alone for a month or six weeks. I have some engagements to fulfil here at that time, and have promised to read, at our Embassy, for a certain charitable British Society, etc."

80 DICKENS (C.) A. L. s. 3 pp. 8vo, initials, Twelfth December, 1862, to E. S. Dallas, Esq.

"You and Mrs. Dallas will be surprised, but glad, to learn that there is no reasonable doubt of your having been misled as to the state of the Doctor's practice. When we saw Symes this morning his assertions on that head were so positive and direct, that we felt it necessary to know to an inch the true and exact state of the ground on which we were going right or wrong. Therefore, going (without Symes) from Symes to the Doctor, we asked the Doctor the question, and explained to him, that it was impossible to assist him hopefully or with judgment, unless we were most accurately informed. He thereupon unlocked one of his table-drawers and produced his book of fees for (I think) three years, of which this present year is the last. Unless the entries from day to day, with varying pens and in varying states of ink were all made fraudulently or maniacally it is impossible to doubt that he realizes by his practice in this present year, more than a Thousand Pounds. The seventy Pounds of which you made mention in your letter to me, is right as to the sum, but wrong as to the time in which the sum was earned. It represents the professional income of a month—not a half year, but a month—whether the month of October or November is not material, but one of the two. Forster corrects this to August. If one can receive anything on written evidence, one must receive this. We had previously doubted Symes, but we felt it unreasonable—impossible—to dispute this proof. It is true that his practice would seem, on the same testimony, to be steadily on the decline, but (including his receipts as physician to an Assurance Office) it yields in this, the worst of the years of which we have seen the account, more than a Thousand Pounds.

I am inclined to think, as he is right in this, there may be reality in the three or four hundred pounds in the drawer (we did not press him on that head, having got at so much). But we learned from Symes that he has a payment of £400 to make shortly, on account (we inferred—only inferred) of some call on share-holding or other similar speculation, in respect of which Symes has also to pay money at the same time. The sum may be provided for that occasion.

The House has four years to run. The Lease does not expire until the year 1866.

Now the difference between the real and supposed state of his practice, very materially affects the question of the retention of the house. He has been there so long and is so associated with it, that it must be held to be an element in the gaining of say a thousand or twelve hundred a year. And at present we both lean to the conclusion that the best way to serve him would be to endeavour (as privately as possible) to raise a fund which would not only pay off the mortgage on the house at Chatham, but enable him to live rent free in the house in Conduit Street, until its term expires. Another four years in his life, in his condition and at his age, poor fellow, are a long term.

The quarrel with the sisters is of so complicated a kind and made up of so many little things (including a cockatoo), that it would be mere madness and moonshire to unravel it bit by bit. But we got this morning at the fact that its bitterness would seem to have been intensified by his going down to the now mortgaged house (which they then occupied) to eject them unless they paid a certain bill which they were bound to pay, for repairs done to it. He arriving on the scene, possibly to execute this threat, but certainly after having made it, led to their anticipating the skeedaddle policy, of later days, by climbing over the garden wall into their present house, and shaking the dust off their feet at him.

Observe that Baker this morning, in the most positive and emphatic manner, besought us not to mistrust Symes! He had lived in the house eleven years, he had nursed the Doctor in sickness, he had always been the same, he was the most upright and honourable of gentlemen. This, not before the Doctor, but when we were quite alone.

We have seen the Solicitors—that is, we have seen Mr. Lucas as representing the Firm. We have settled our course beforehand. As we could not possibly move him from the position that he could only receive our communication as 'Miss Elliotson's solicitor,' we declined to make it. In proportion as we receded his curiosity evidently advanced, but we held to our ground (we thought it absolutely necessary to avoid committing Elliotson on such terms), and we left him.

I have just seen Mrs. Dallas on her way to Hanover Square.

Faithfully yours always,
C. D.

E. S. Dallas, Esquire.

I shall be in town again—that is to say at Gad's Hill—on the 22nd. In the meantime Forster will be happy to co-operate with you in any way. His address is 46, Montague Square."

- 81 DICKENS (C.) A. L. s.  $1\frac{1}{2}$  pp. 8vo, Gad's Hill Place, Twelfth June, 1865, to Thomas Headland, Esq.; with signature also on envelope

"I am very much obliged to you for your letter, and I beg cordially to assure you that I have been touched by its kind feeling and its affectionate good sense.

I should have written to you sooner but for two reasons. Firstly, I have been in France. Secondly, I was in the terrible railway accident last Friday. I was in the carriage that did not go over into the stream, but was caught on the turn, just as it was dropping over, by the broken girders and brickwork of the bridge. I am shaken; not by the dragging of the carriage, itself, but by the work afterwards in getting out the dying and dead, which was horrible.

My handwriting may not be very plain, I fear, but I knew you would rather see mine than a Deputy's. So here it is."

- 82 DICKENS (C.) A. L. s. "C. D."  $1\frac{1}{2}$  pp. 8vo, 17 Feb. 1869, to Mr. Dolby in reference to an illness

"You know how earnestly I hope to get sword in hand again and that soon, and fight it out. I am as restless as if I were behind bars in the Zoological Gardens, and if I could afford it would wear a part of my mane away as the Lion has done by rubbing against the windows of my cage."

- 83 DICKENS (C.) A. L. s. "C. D."  $2\frac{1}{4}$  pp. 8vo, 19 Feb. 1869, to Mr. Dolby, in reference to his readings

"First and foremost, there are three mistakes in the Scotch announcements. 1. I expressly overlooked your noting down Mr. C. D. purposes to have the honour of reading, &c. I said to you in the strongest manner, "No Poor Traveller," absurd to have to get it up for one night. Particularly onerous to have to get anything up under such circumstances. I could not have been more annoyed if I had seen myself announced to read Jack the Giant Killer."

- 84 Dickens (C.) A. L. s. 1 p. 8vo, to the Ladies and Gentlemen, my correspondents, through Mr. Clarke, Twenty Fourth March, 1869.

"Ladies and Gentlemen,

I beg to assure you that I am much gratified by the desire you do me the honor to express in your letter handed to me by Mr. John Clarke.

Before that letter reached me, I had heard of your wish, and had mentioned to Messrs. Chappell that it would be highly agreeable to me to anticipate it, if possible. They readily responded, and we agreed upon having three Morning Readings in London. As they are not yet publicly announced, I add a note of the days and subjects:

Saturday, May 1st. Boots at the Holly Tree Inn, and Sikes and Nancy from Oliver Twist.

Saturday, May 8th. The Christmas Carol.

Saturday, May 22nd. Sikes and Nancy from Oliver Twist, and The Trial from Pickwick.

With the warmest interest in your Art, and in its claims upon the general gratitude and respect."

- 85 DICKENS (C.) A. L. s.  $1\frac{1}{4}$  p. 8vo, Sep. 11, 1869, to Mr. Dolby in reference to his readings, &c.

"I have a notion, if it will suit you, of supplementing the speechmaking, with a small excursion next day to Stratford or Kenilworth or both, or somewhere else in a jovial way. N.B. No substantial ground for the phantom of the Wye."

- 86 Dickens (C.) No Thoroughfare. A Drama in Five Acts, original wrapper Office of All the Year Round, 1867

* * * FIRST EDITION. This play is the joint work of Charles Dickens and Wilkie Collins.

- 120 Beaumont (Francis) A Preparative to Studie; or, The Virtue of Sack, FIRST EDITION, unbound 1641
 * * A very rare poetical publication, which was, apparently, privately printed. It is reprinted in Beaumont's collected poems. The poem which commences: "Fetch me Ben Jonson's scull, and fill 't with Sacke" is ascribed to both Thomas Heywood and Francis Beaumont. Sack is referred to by Shakespeare in King Henry the Fourth, the Merry Wives of Windsor, and Love's Labour's Lost.

- 121 Bernardinus de Bustis: Mariale, three Gothic types, 388 ll. 2 cols. printer's marks and 64 fine metal cuts in text, one cut of Virgin and Child repeated forty-eight times, another four times, and cut of Annunciation twelve times, numerous woodcut initials
sm. 4to. Leonhard Pachel, Milan, 1493
 ** Perfect copies are rare. One of the few Milanese XV Cent. books containing cuts on soft metal.
- 122 Beroaldus (Ph.) Annotationes in Commentarios Servii in Virgilium, lit. rom. long lines, 40 ll. rough edges
sm. 4to. Ant. Miscomini, Florence, 1489
 ** Not in Proctor.
- 123 Berosus Babilonicus. De His quæ Praecesserunt inundationem Terrarum. Item Myrsilus de Origine Turrhenorum. Cato in fragmentis. Corn. Taciti de Situ et Moribus Germanorum, &c. woodcut device with initials C. O. on title (reproduced in Brunet), and woodcut initials, vellum
sm. 4to. s. l. Año dñi, 1511
- 124 Biblia Latina, cum Tabula, noviter edita, lit. goth. 16 ll. 440 ll. incl. 1st blank, 2 cols. 55 lines, fine large woodcut printer's device, initials painted in red and blue, water-stained, and small hole in the title from corrosive ink, old MS. notes, bound in blind stamped red leather, apparently taken from one of the sides of a larger 15th Cent. binding
sm. 4to. Simon Bevilacqua, Venice, 22 Nov. 1494
- 125 Blackfriars. The Dolefull Evensong, or a True Particular and Impartial Narration of that fearefull and sudden calamity which befell the Preacher Mr. Drury, a Jesuite, and the greater part of his auditory, by the downfall of the florre at an assembly in the Black-Friers, on Sunday, the 25 of Octob. last, in the after noone. Together with the Rehearsal of Master Drurie, his Text, and the division thereof, &c. calx extra 1623
 ** This very rare Blackfriars' tract is referred to by Malone in his "Historical Account of the English Stage" (Globe Theatre). Blackfriars is alluded to by Shakespeare in his "Love's Labour's Lost."
- 126 Board (Andrew) Scogin's Jests, Full of Witty Mirth and Pleasant Shifts; done by him in France and other places. Being a Preservative against Melancholy, black letter, old half calx
W. Thackeray (1640-50)
 ** Shakespeare makes a curious reference to Scogan in his second part of "King Henry IV."
- 127 Bonaventura (S.) Incominciano le devote meditatione sopra la passione del nostro signore cavate et fondate originalmente sopra mesere Bonaventura cardinale de lordine minore. Sopra Nicholao de lira, &c. lit. goth. with signatures, but without numeration or catch-words, 46 ll. 35 lines to a full page, woodcut initials, calx
sm. 4to. Leon. Pachel & Ulrich Scinzenzeler, Milan, 7 Oct. 1480
 ** VERY RARE. Not in Hain or Proctor. No copy in the Br. Mus., Bodl., Cambr. Univ. Libr., or Paris Nat. Libr.

 * * This interesting book contains several part-songs. See Halliwell's Index to the Works of Shakespeare, page 37.
- 130 Byron (Lord) Works, a new, revised and enlarged edition, edited by E. H. Coleridge, illustrations, 13 vol. LARGE PAPER, only 250 copies printed, half bound, g. t. uncut, as published Murray, 1898-1901
- 131 CANTUS: SONGS and FANCIES, with severall of the choicest Italian Songs and New English Ayres, most pleasant and delightful for all Humours, FINE LARGE COPY, old calf 1682
 * * The great rarity of this volume was well known to collectors of the eighteenth century, but it acquired an increased value from Bindley's discovery, which had escaped the researches of Dr. Burney, Hawkins, and every other writer upon Music. This very rare volume contains the original of the popular air of "God save the King," so long and so vainly searched for by historians and amateurs of music. It is entitled: "Here's a health unto his Majesty . . . the Author John Saville." The volume also contains Shakespeare's well known song "From the Fair Lavinian Shore."
- 132 Capoferro (R.) Grand Simulacro dell' Arte e dell' uso della Scherma, a very fine perfect copy, portraits and 42 illustrations of fencing and duelling, morocco extra, g. e. Siena, 1610
 * * This very rare book is referred to by Halliwell to illustrate the eight fencing terms mentioned by Shakespeare in "The Merry Wives of Windsor."
- 133 Carrera (P.) Il Gioco degli Sacchi, diviso in VIII libri, con due discorsi, l'uno del Padre D. Gio. Battista Cherubino, l'altro del Dottor Mario Tortelli, &c. diagram of a chess board on title, vellum Militello, 1617
- 134 Casas (Barth. de las) Entre los remedios que Bartome de las casas refirio para reformation de las Indias, . . . donde se asignan veynte razones por las quales prueva no deverse dar los Indios a los Españoles en encomienda, lit. goth. woodcut title, half morocco, ORIGINAL EDITION sm. 4to. J. Cromberger, Seville, 1552
- 135 Cassell's Book of Birds, from the text of Dr. Brehm, by Prof. T. R. Jones, 4 vol. engravings and coloured plates, n. d.—Tegetmeier (W. R.) On Pigeons, with coloured illustrations by Harrison Weir, and woodcuts, 1868 (super. impl. 8vo.) (5)
- 136 Cattermole (Rev. R.) Great Civil War, 15 steel plates by Heath, after G. Cattermole, cloth, g. e. 1841
- 137 Cavalca (Dom.) Specchio di Croce, lit. rom. long lines, 142 unnumb. ll. with curiously stamped sign. capitals painted in red and blue, first l. torn at the top, so that margin and 4 lines of text are missing, margin of last l. also a little torn, some ll. water-stained, vellum, VERY RARE sm. 4to. [Filippo di Pietro, Venice, c. 1480.]

- 139 Chaloner (Thomas) De Reip Anglorum instauranda libri X. Hunc accessit in laudem Henrici Octavi Carmen Panegyricum, FIRST EDITION, fine woodcut portrait, 3 titles with printer's marks, a few margins slightly wormed, good copy. old calf, a few contemp. marginal MS. notes Th. Vautrollerius, London, 1579

* * The Poem on Henry VIII appeared separately in 1560.

- 140 CHATTERTON (Thomas) An original Holograph Manuscript, 12½ pp. 4to, half morocco

* * This most valuable manuscript is evidently the first draft of CHATTERTON'S MASTERPIECE "Ælla." The name of the principal character in the present manuscript being "Eldred," which Chatterton afterwards altered to "Ælla."

The arrangement of the dialogue is in many respects altered in the work as published, but it will be found on comparison that much of it is in almost the same words as in those of this original draft. The "Dialogue Song" between a Shepherd and Shepherdess found in the manuscript, although exactly similar in idea to the printed "Mynstrelles Song bie a Manne and Womanne," differs very considerably both in words and orthography. The spelling throughout this manuscript is of Chatterton's period and it was undoubtedly an afterthought of his to utilise the orthography of the period of the supposed Thomas Rowley in the enlarged published "Ælla a Tragycal Enterlude."

- 141 Chrysostom (John) Sermones XXV, lit. rom. long lines, 108 ll. without marks, initials painted in red, headings of chapters also in red, some lower margins remargined, perfect, large, and fine copy, brown morocco, sm. 4to. Georg. Lauer, in the Monastery of St. Eusebius, Rome, 1470

* * EDITIO PRINCEPS. Beautiful specimen in Lauer's earliest Roman type. It is the second book printed by him, and was preceded by Homiliae of St. Chrysostom on 29 Oct., 1470. It is very rare, not in Copinger.

- 39- 142 Clavell (John) A Recantation of an Ill Led Life : or a Discoverie of the High-way Law, with vehement Disswasions to all (in that kind) Offenders, as also many cantilous Admonitions and full Instructions, how to know, shunne, and apprehend a Thiefe. . . half morocco 1634

* * A rare Shakespearean volume. Contains an account of a robbery at Gadshill (King Henry IV). There was a copy in Halliwell's sale catalogue.

- 75- 143 Comestor (Peter) Scolastica Historia super Bibliam cum additionibus atque incidentis, MANUSCRIPT ON VELLUM, in fine English handwriting of 14th Cent. 2 cols. 179 ll. inits. painted in red and blue, finely rubricated, with pass. in red, fine headings, a few marginal notes of later date, and at the end, 3 ll. of index in different hand, on the second leaf a coat of arms—Libri tredecim allegoriarum. Incipit: In precendentibus premissis descriptioe originis et discrecionis arcium etc. MS. 2 cols. 62 ll. inits. painted in red, rubricated, in excellent condition, in 1 vol. blue morocco plain, lettered in gold by Miss Pattinson sm. 4to, SÆC. XIV.

- 144 Complaint (The) and Appeal of Authors to the Court of Apollo, in Two Epistles to Fidelio (reference to Shakespeare at p. vi) 1763—

Lloyd (R.) The New River Head, a Tale inscrib'd to John Wilkes, 1763—Keate (G.) The Ruins of Netley Abbey, a Poem, 1764, FIRST EDITIONS; and others (10)

*.* FIRST EDITION, EXTREMELY RARE.

224 Essex (Robert Devereux, Earl of) The Differences of the Ages of Man's Life, together with the original Causes, Progress and End thereof, calf (corner of title mended) 1607

*.* This is a peculiarly rare little volume (by Henry Cuffe) (of which only one other copy seems to have occurred for sale) by a Fellow of Merton College, Oxford, whose misfortune it was to be implicated in the conspiracy of the Earl of Essex against Queen Elizabeth in 1601. It may be said to belong to the series of books dealing with the Ages of Man, and was written the year before the event which proved fatal to its author and to Essex himself. Essex is stated to have inculpated Cuffe, who was his secretary, by naming him as a party to the plot, and he was hanged at Tyburn in 1601.

- 238 HENRY VIII. SALLUST. C. CRISPI SALLUSTII OPERA. Cu plusculis additamentis noviter et diligēter Parisi' Impressa. Venundantur Parisiis a Joanne de Marnef sub Intersignio Pellicani 1521. 8vo, calf, bound for HENRY VIII with his arms supported by angels impressed on the upper cover, the Tudor rose surrounded by a motto, supported by angels with arms in the upper corners, impressed on the lower cover 1521

* * * THIS IMPORTANT AND BEAUTIFUL COPY was specially prepared and bound for HENRY VIII. The title-page has a richly illuminated border and a printer's device is also illuminated in gold and colours. The second, third and penultimate pages are decorated with vases and flowers in gold and colours, and the initials throughout are illuminated. On the thirteenth page is a shield illuminated in blue, and bearing the three fleurs-de-lys of France surmounted by the crown. This precious volume was probably one of the books presented by Francis I to Henry VIII after their meeting at the Field of the Cloth of Gold. "On sait que parmi les cadeaux offerts par François I<sup>er</sup> à Henri VIII, lors de l'entrevue du camp du Drap-d'Or, se trouvaient plusieurs volumes richement reliés. Celui-ci faisait sans aucun doute partie de ce présent royal, destiné du reste, comme tous les autres dons du roi de France, à humilier son bon frère; l'Angleterre, malgré Caxton, étant alors pour l'imprimerie et surtout pour la reliure en notable infériorité vis-à-vis de sa rivale. Constatons avec plaisir, en passant, que cette infériorité n'a fait que s'augmenter avec le temps."—BARON DOUBLE, "Cabinet d'un Curieux."

* * * This poem differs slightly from the published version, and first appeared in the Englishman's Magazine, 1831.

2. Holograph Letter signed, 1 page 4to, to John Foster (sic for Forster). Addressed from Mr. Walden's, Church Street, Edmonton, 1833

I was disappointed at not seeing you yesterday or the day before. I named a silly hour, but it was in a hurry. I used a curt style because my Amanuensis is no great scribe. I made use of him because my hand shook so. My hand shook because I had been trying to write very neatly an Album Acrostic in which the Initial letters require unusually fair writing. A coach from Snow Hill at 2 brings you to Walden's door before 4. After that hour I shall not expect you. Strive and come to-morrow. Thanks for the orders and pray make my acknowledgments to the players. N.B.—To-morrow is to-day with you. Set off.

3. Holograph Letter signed, 1 page, 4to, to Serjeant Talfourd, Enfield, March 6, 1833

Many congratulations to you on a birth of the description which I think you both wished for. Let us know how mother and babe bear it. As soon as ever you feel free to leave them come down for a day. Will you bring the Tragedian (and Tragedy) in your hands. I am sorry to add that (don't be frightened) just as the last Elias were ready for distribution there has come from Taylor, of the "London," a threat to Moxon of applying for an injunction, unless he compensates him for his copyright. The son of a — in a manger! neither to print himself nor let print. In this emergency can you spare me a little counsel? whether the injunction would hold? Taylor made no bargain with me, but volunteer'd third profits—he says he purchased right of printing the former vol. of Baldwin. Send me a cup of cool comfort in the form of advice—some legal crumbs (sic) that drop from the Serjeant's table.

Talking of accidents in families what an egregious piece of duplicity has Proctor plaid off.

4. R. W. Elliston. Holograph Letter signed, 1 page, 8vo, to Charles Lamb, Surrey Theatre, March 14th, 1829

I was delighted to find you had not forgotten me, and shall with much pleasure renew your acquaintance. The Farce you have sent me, I regret to say, would not in my opinion be suited to the interest of the Theatre, and therefore I return it. I have a tolerably good house 84 Great Surrey Street where I shall always be happy to see you. &c.

- * * Edward Moxon, in an article on Charles Lamb, printed in 1835, mentions the fact that with but two exceptions Lamb did not preserve a single letter. These letters were not known to Canon Ainger when he published Lamb's Letters in 1897. Forster's name does not appear in the volumes.

I excited any very sanguine expectations in your mind, of a success at least worth looking to as a source of pecuniary assistance, from the pursuit of literature and the present overstocked state of the market. During my late visit to town, I had two or three manuscripts of considerable merit, returned to me by the publishers to whom I recommended them, solely from their wanting that attraction of a name, which (in poetry especially) is necessary to give circulation to a work."

275 Napoleon I. The Chair used by Napoleon during his Captivity at St. Helena

\* \* In Sloan's Life of Napoleon (vol. 4, page 220) is Myrbach's picture of Napoleon in the garden of Longwood, dictating his memoirs to Las Cases, and the chair in which he is seated so nearly resembles the one now offered for sale that the drawing might almost have been made from it. It is just such an article of furniture as would be used in the tropics: a light, painted, open, wooden frame, with cane seat. The under part of the frame (the only part not painted) is worm-eaten, and on this part there was recently discovered an inscription on paper, in a contemporary hand, as follows:—"This chair used by Napoleon Buonaparte and purchased at the sale of his effects at Longwood by Mr. Andrew Darling. St. Helena, 1821." The inscription is also worm-holed, and the mark of the place on which it was gummed is still visible. The spelling of Napoleon's family name, Buonaparte, will be noticed, being the original Corsican form, before the Consul gallicised it, and this is in consonance with the custom of the British Government, who never recognised Napoleon as Emperor, and to the day of his death termed him in all documents merely General Buonaparte. The form of the attestation is of importance, as it does not state merely that it is a chair from Longwood, but that it was the chair used by Napoleon Buonaparte, and the fact that the seat is broad (19 x 16) and low from the ground (only 17 inches) makes it probable that it was expressly made to suit the short stature and the obese proportions of Napoleon's body at that date. The inscription has been preserved in a frame, and will be sold with the chair. On the back of the chair is a brass plate, affixed there by Mr. Darling, as follows:—"This Chair belonged to Napoleon Buonaparte at St. Helena." The plate is much tarnished with age. Mr. Darling was a resident in St. Helena during Napoleon's captivity, and his name in full—Mr. Andrew Darling, St. Helena—appears in the List of Subscribers of a scarce volume entitled "A Tour through the Island of St. Helena, with some Particulars respecting Napoleon Buonaparte, by Capt. John Barnes, 1817." The work in question has a curious coloured portrait of Napoleon, from a drawing made on board the "Northumberland" on the voyage out. We thus have one of the most interesting relics possible to possess of one of the world's greatest men—the chair in which he fretted out his existence during the six years of exile from the land in which he had acted so marvellous a part, and from which he must have dictated those memoirs which were intended to be a justification of his actions. Relics innumerable exist of many great men, some spurious, some real, and in the case of a personal relic of the great Napoleon the all-important point is documentary proof such as is forthcoming in the present instance. It is easy to imagine with what wondering eyes posterity, centuries hence, will view this chair, and will try to realise that its slight framework once bore the conqueror of Europe as his life ebbed away during the period of his final misfortunes. - 276 NAPOLEON I. CHARGE OF THE FRENCH CUIRASSIERS AT THE BATTLE OF WATERLOO. A Large and Extremely Spirited Water-Colour Drawing by J. A. Atkinson, signed and dated 1815, but part of the signature illegible in consequence of the dark nature of the background, size 21 inches by 16 $\frac{1}{2}$

* * John Augustus Atkinson, born in 1775, studied in the picture galleries of St. Petersburg, and, in 1803, after his return to England, he published the "Manners, Customs, and Amusements of the Russians" in 100 coloured plates. He exhibited 60 battle-pieces at the Royal Academy between 1803 and 1833, including a picture of the Battle of Waterloo, which was engraved by John Burnet, and, says Bryan's "Dictionary of Painters," "He also painted in water-colours." His various series of coloured engravings were published by firms of the highest repute and now realise large prices. The moment depicted in this drawing is the meeting with the Royal Dragoons, and so interesting an example of Atkinson's work has probably not been offered for many years.

- 277 NAVAL CHRONICLE (The), containing a General and Biographical History of the Royal Navy, and Original Papers on Nautical Subjects, complete from the commencement, 40 vol. numerous fine portraits and engravings of Battles at Sea, &c. (as vols. 5, 30, and 31 each wants a plate it will be sold not subject to return), half calf 1799-1818

- 278 Needler (Henry) The Works of; consisting of Original Poems, Translations, Essays, and Letters, title in red and black, original calf 1728

* * This is an interesting Shakespearean volume. At pages 20 and 21 is found a "Prologue to Julius Cæsar," commencing:—

"Shou'd Shakespeare's Ghost again appear to Light—
To see us play his Cæsar here to-night."

The Prologue consists of 32 lines, and was spoken at St. Paul's School, Jan. 27, 1712. At that period the fame of Marlborough was at its zenith, and the famous soldier is here described as a greater than Cæsar!

"Great Marlborough! in whose accomplish'd Mind
All Cæsar, but his Vices, we may find."

QUARTO.

- 279 Elizabeth (Queen) The Funeral Procession of; from a drawing of the time supposed to be by the hand of William Camden, then Clarencieux King at Arms, which was in the possession of John Wilmot, Esq. F.R.S. and by him deposited in the British Museum, an extremely long roll depicting the Funeral Procession with the names of the principal actors and groups therein, enclosed in a case 1791

* * * Among the persons represented are the Earl of Pembroke, Ralph Brooke, William Camden, &c. &c.

- 280 Epictetus. Discourses translated by George Long, 2 vol. one of 250 copies, printed on handmade paper, half parchment, uncut 1902

- 281 ESSEX. A MOST VALUABLE AND INTERESTING CORRESPONDENCE RELATING TO THE COUNTY OF ESSEX, BEING LETTERS WRITTEN BY THE REV. PHILIP MORANT, AUTHOR OF THE HISTORY OF ESSEX, IN CONNECTION WITH HIS HISTORY, &c. This very important correspondence is contained in seven 4to volumes, uniformly bound in half morocco

Vol. I and II comprise 244 Autograph Letters from Rev. P. Morant to Dr. Ducarel on very interesting subjects, and one vol. contains the Bookplate of Dr. Ducarel, 1752-67.

Vol. III contains 124 long Autograph Letters from Dr. Ducarel to Rev. P. Morant, 1756-66; a note at the commencement of the volume states that these letters prove that many of the literary works published by Dr. Ducarel, under his own name, were wholly composed and written by Rev. P. Morant.

Vol IV contains a very interesting series of Autograph Letters from Lords Dacre and Maynard to Morant in reference to his History, &c. 1757-69.

Vol. V contains a large and interesting series of Autograph Letters from Edmund Gibson, Bishop of London, and Thomas Sherlock, Bishop of London, 1728-48.

Vol. VI contains Letters addressed to Morant from Jos. Ames, Dr. Thomas Bird, Dr. Charles Collignon, Sir John Cust, James Ferguson (the astronomer), Charles Guy, Dr. Heberden, Joseph Kirby, Bishop Lowth, Bishop Lyttleton, Thomas Martin, Dr. Thomas Percy, (Bishop Percy), Dr. Robert Rawlinson, W. Stukeley, Dr. Thomas Warton, Browne Willis, Bishops Hoadley and Sherlock, Terrick, N. Tindall, and others, a most interesting volume.

Vol. VII contains Autograph Letters from the Rev. Philip Falle, author of the History of Jersey, &c. to Rev. P. Morant, from Jan. 1828 to Feb. 1742, on very interesting subjects.

* * * This extremely interesting and unique collection of Autograph Letters is of great interest to Essex collectors, or Essex public libraries.

- ** Galen is mentioned by Shakespeare in the second part of "King Henry the Fourth." A volume of the highest interest and importance. Melancthon studied medicine from an early period of his life. In the third volume of the "Corpus Reformatum" (page 490) we find a preface to the works of Galen, written by Melancthon in 1538; indeed, such was his thorough knowledge of their contents that Heerbrand states in his funeral oration, he could repeat the greater part of them from memory. Many of the MS. notes and underlinings of the text of this treatise are the same as those in the collected edition of his works. Some few of the notes are in red ink, and the greater portion of them have been written with considerable care. Some of these annotations are reproduced by Sotheby in his monograph on Melancthon. Examples of this famous Theologian's library are but seldom met with.

GREAT WHORE UNFOLDED and Antichrist's Kingdom revealed unto destruction, Th. Simmons, 1659, the two works in one volume, original calf
- * * * This copy of the Battle-Door contains the full collation of 57 sheets on 114 leaves as given by Hazlitt and Joseph Smith, and agrees with the copy in the Grenville Library, British Museum. It includes the first leaf of Errata but not the slip issued subsequently "more errors espied since," which is very rarely found. On the verso of the last leaf is pasted a very rare additional slip, signed G. F., relating to the Pope's pride in using 'You to one.' This is evidently the original impression, but the one in the Grenville copy is apparently a modern reprint.
Inserted before the title-page of the Battle-Door is a printed copy of an interesting letter from John Stubs to "Deare George Fox" written presumably in 1660 or 1661, relating to the publication of the book, and in which he mentions that it contains 57 sheets. This letter was printed in 1842 from the original MS.

455 Oulton (W. C.) A History of the Theatres of London, containing an Annual Register of New Pieces, Revivals, Pantomimes, &c., with Occasional Notes and Anecdotes, being a continuation of Victor's and Oulton's Histories from the year 1795 to 1817 inclusive, 3 vol. half calf 1817

* * The first volume is the Register of the New Pieces, &c., performed at Drury Lane during the stated period ; the second, those performed at Covent Garden ; and the third refers to Haymarket Theatre and the English Opera. There are numerous entries of Shakespeare's Plays. Benjamin Victor, of whose (and Oulton's) "Histories" this work is a continuation, was an excellent dramatic historian. He was sub-manager and treasurer first at Dublin and afterwards at Drury Lane.

- 456 OLDFIELD (Mrs.) Faithful Memoirs of the Life, Amours, and Performances of this famous Actress, by W. Egerton, 2 portraits, but cut down and mounted, 1731—Bellamy (George Anne) Memoirs written by herself, second edition, 2 vol. in 1, whole bound in tree calf, 1785; &c. (3 vol.)

Colophon: Imprinted in London at Fletestrete at the signe of the Sunne over against the conduyte, by Edward Whitchurche, the last daye of June 1.5.4.6. Cum privilegio ad imprimendum solum. 1546
- ** An edition of exceeding rarity, especially when found in a perfect state like the present. Lowndes could not quote the sale of a copy of this, the second edition, although he records a copy of the first edition, 1544, which sold in the Caldecott sale, but lacked the title-page. Herbert describes the first edition in a way which suggests that he only saw the Caldecott copy. The only other copy of this second edition which has occurred lacked the title-page, Mr. Hazlitt being obliged to take the particulars from the headlines. The earliest issue in the British Museum is that of 1553. The present is a remarkable copy in the original calf binding, with strings.
- 463 Plays. A Collection of 7 Plays, published by T. Johnson, Bookseller, at the Hague, viz., Addison. Cato, a Tragedy, 1713—Lee (Nat.) Sophonisba; or Hanibal's Overthrow, a Tragedy, 1719—Dryden and 1713–1721

* * At the end of Nat. Lee's Sophonisba will be found a "Catalogue of English Plays," which announces no less than fifty plays, nine of which are Shakespeare's, viz., Julius Cæsar, Macbeth, Hamlet, Othello, King Henry IV., The Merry Wives of Windsor, The Tempest, The Jew of Venice, and Timon of Athens. A similar catalogue occurs at the end of Dryden and Lee's Œdipus, announcing fifty-three plays, of which nine are by Shakespeare.

Watts*, 1728; Catherine and Petruchio, a Comedy in three acts, as performed at the Theatre Royal in Drury Lane, altered from Shakespear's Taming of the Shrew (by D. Garrick), FIRST EDITION, Tonson, &c. 1756; The Universal Passion: a Comedy (an Adaptation of Shakespeare's "Much Ado," by James Miller) FIRST EDITION, J. Watts, 1737, all half bound (3)

- 493 Shakespearean Catalogues. A Collection of Eleven Catalogues dating from 1678 to 1868, comprising the Catalogue of Books added to the Library of the Edinburgh Academy, 1678; the Rawlinson Catalogue (various parts) 8 vol. 1721 to 1734; the Bohn Library, 1868, &c. 11 vol. in all Edinburgh, &c. 1678-1868

* * In that part of the Rawlinson Library catalogued in 1721, a "Third Folio" Shakespeare occurs. In the November, 1727, portion of the same library Shakespeare's "Rape of Lucrece," 1607, is recorded. "Romeo and Juliet," 1637, is included in the October, 1727, portion. An anonymous library sold in 1817 comprised several Shakespeare items: Hamlet, 1611, sold for £1. 6s.; Othello, 1655, 8s.; Merchant of Venice, 1652, 3s.; Shakespeare's Poems, 1640, not priced. A curious item is number 1197: "Malone's 'Account of the Incidents from which the Title and Story of Shakespeare's Tempest were derived,' very rare, 1808, only 80 copies were printed as presents." Shakespeare's "Second Folio," 1632, realised £4. 5s. A copy of Johnson and Steevens' "Shakespeare," LARGE PAPER, is described herein as "rare." The Bohn Catalogue includes ten editions of Shakespeare and also "Julius Cæsar," n. d.

- 494 Shakespearean Catalogues. A Collection of Ten Catalogues dating from 1683 to 1783, comprising the Bibliotheca Heinsiana, Lug. Bat. 1683, the library of Petrus Francius, Amstelaedami, 1704, the Rawlinson Catalogue (various parts) 6 vol. 1726-1756, and the Bibliotheca Croftsiana, 1783, 10 vol. in all

Lugduni Batav. Amsterdam, London, 1683-1783

* * The Rawlinson Catalogue for January, 1727-8, includes The Merchant of Venice, 1652; Venus and Adonis, 1602; Tarquin and Lucretia, 1669. Again, the Rawlinson Catalogue for November, 1729, comprises: Venus and Adonis, FIRST EDITION, 1630. In Part IX of the same Catalogue there is a copy of "Romeo and Juliet," 1637. Finally, in the part of the Rawlinson Library sold in 1756, there are: "Poems" by Shakespeare, 1640; "Rape of Lucrece," 1607; Ditto, 1598; Shakespeare's "Works," by Rowe, 9 vol. 1714. The Crofts Library contained eight early Shakespeare Quartos: "Merchant of Venice," 1600; "Sir John Oldecastle," 1600; "The Whole Contention" (n. d.) "Sir John Falstaffe" (no title); "King Lear," 1608; "Titus Andronicus," 1611; "Richard II." 1615; "A Yorkshire Tragedy," 1619. Also well worthy of note is a Catalogue (of which the title is missing) including Shakespeare's "Third Folio," 1664, which sold for £1. 2s. and "King John," 1622.

- 495 Shakespearean Catalogues. A Collection of Eleven Catalogues, comprising the Second Portion of the Library of Archdeacon Wrangham, the Town Library of a Nobleman, the Heber Library, the Nixon Beauclerk, Scott (Bibliopolæ Regii Londinensis, 1687) Bernard Libraries, &c. &c. &c. 1688-1843

* * Under "Miscellanies in Folio" in the Scott Catalogue are two copies of Shakespeare's "Fourth Folio," 1685 (v. numbers 57 and 157) and in the Beauclerk Library the Shakespearean part is of particular importance. Under English Theatre in Part I are "Pericles," 1630; "Sir John Oldcastle," 1600; three Plays catalogued together—"Othello," "Julius Cæsar," 1684, "Macbeth," 1674. Lots 4396 to 4406 are also items of Shakespeare interest, among which is a copy of "Henry V," 1608. The Heber Catalogue, which is priced throughout in Manuscript, and also has the names of the purchasers, contains a wonderful list of Shakespeare Quartos, comprising lots 5442 to 5489—47 items. To quote a few:

The Nixon Catalogue (1818) comprises some valuable items, par exemple, "Richard III," 1597, £33. 10s. This copy was bought by Heber and sold in his sale (1834) for £41. 9s. 6d. There are nine other early Shakespeare Quartos in this catalogue which sold from 8s. to £10. 10s. each.

- 496 Shakespearean Catalogues. A Collection of Eleven, comprising the Thos. Pitcairn, Thos. Baker, John Bridges (historian of Northamptonshire), J. W. Dodd (Theatre Royal, Dublin), Sir Robert Gordon of Gordons-toun, and the Denis Daly Libraries, besides a bookseller's (Jackson) catalogue, &c. bound in calf, half calf, &c.

London, Cambridge, Edinburgh, Dublin, 1701-1816

* * A most interesting collection. In a catalogue dated 1722 a "Tragedy of Richard III" is ascribed to Colley Cibber; this was an acting version of Shakespeare's play published by Cibber. The Dodd Library contained several Shakespearean items and lots of Old Plays. A parcel of single Plays and Poems realised £1. 1s. Another large parcel 5s. 6d. Shakespeare's "Rape of Lucrece," with his head, 1655, 7s. 6d. Shakespeare's "Collection of Poems," 2 vol. in 1 [n.d.], 2s. A curious work ascribed to Shakespeare is a "Compendious or Briefe Examination of Certayne Ordinarye Complaints of divers of our Countrymen," which sold for £1. 1s. "The Tragedie of Julius Cæsar," London, 1607, with three other plays, 1604-7, £2. 3s. Shakespeare's Poems, 1710, LARGE PAPER, 3s. A remarkable sequence of 22 Shakespeare Quartos sold:

ANOTHER PROPERTY.

SHAKESPEAREANA.

- 561 Essex (Robert Devereux, Earl of) A Folio Document dated December 31st, 1598, addressed from Whitehall to the Chancellor of the Exchequer, bearing the signatures of John Whitgift (Archbishop of Canterbury), Robert Devereux Earl of Essex, Earl of Nottingham, George Carey, Lord Hunsdon, Roger Lord North, Lord Buckhurst
(the poet), Sir William Knollys, Robert Cecil, and Sir John Fortescue
- ** A remarkable group of signatures, that of Essex being particularly interesting, as the Earl was so intimately associated with Shakespeare, and was a man who allowed himself to be approached by the more eminent writers of the day. His connection with Shakespeare's Richard II is set forth at large in the biographies of the Poet. In Henry V, Shakespeare paid Essex the unique compliment of presaging his victorious return from his Irish expedition.
- 562 Herbert (Philip, Earl of Pembroke and Montgomery) His signature to a Folio Letter dated from Uxbridge, February 11, 1644, addressed to Lord Fairfax (the Parliamentary General), mentions Lord Saye, the Countess of Kent (friend of Selden), the wardship of Sir William Saville's son, &c.
- ** Philip Herbert was one of "the incomparable pair of brethren" to whom the Folio Shakespeare of 1623 was dedicated.
- 563 Leicester (Lettrice, Countess of) Signed Holograph Letter, 1 page, folio, to Sir Michael Stanhope
- ** An excessively rare autograph. The Countess of Leicester was the third wife of Robert Dudley, the Great Earl of Leicester, and was mother, by her first husband, of the Earl of Essex (the friend of the Dramatist), who was executed in 1601. Shakespeare has immortalized the Countess of Leicester as "the little western flower," in A Midsummer Night's Dream. Accompanying the letter is one of Martyn Johnslyn acknowledging the receipt of the sum of £150 from the Countess of Leicester, dated February 13, 1600-1, only twelve days before the execution of the Earl of Essex.

- 564 A Silver Seal-top Spoon, of the period of James I,  $6\frac{3}{4}$  in. in length. It bears an English provincial hall-mark apparently nine pellets in a circle or a seeded rose.

* * Unique. On the back of the bowl is engraved a full length figure of Shakespeare with the date of his death 1616 beneath, and on the Seal

are the letters A H, being the initials of William Shakespeare and S

Anne Hathaway. This was, no doubt, a memorial spoon made in 1616 either for a relative of the Dramatist or one of his friends.

- 565 A CASKET, MADE FROM THE WOOD OF THE MULBERRY TREE PLANTED BY SHAKESPEARE. It measures 8 in. in length, 5 in. in width, and 3 in. in depth. This elegant casket is lined with red velvet and silver braid and fitted as an inkstand, with compartments containing glass ink-bottle and pounce box, each mounted in silver, the tops engraved with portraits of Shakespeare surrounded by wreaths

* * This Casket was presented by the Corporation of Stratford-on-Avon, in 1769, to George Keate, in recognition of his Services to the Memory of Shakespeare. Accompanying it is the original letter of presentation :

To George Keate, Esq., London.

Sir,—Mr. Wheler has intimated to us that you have several times taken the trouble of attending your Friend Mr. Garrick in our favour; and that you have have shown much attention and Regard to the Place which has the honour of giving Birth to the admired Shakespear. As you so much revere his Memory, we beg your acceptance of a writing Standish made from a Mulberry tree planted by Shakespear's own hand; we are happy in embracing this opportunity of expressing our Acknowledgments to you, and of assuring you that we entertain the most grateful sentiments of your civilities.—By order of the Mayor: Aldermen and Burgesses in Common Council, signed by WM. HUNT, Town Clerk.—Stratford upon Avon, 3rd May, 1769.

Also the original draft of Keate's reply acknowledging the receipt of the Casket :

To Mr. Hunt, Town Clerk of Stratford upon Avon.

Sir,—Having been for some weeks in the Country, on my Return to Town two days ago, I received from my friend Mr. Wheeler, your most obliging letter, accompanied by a present which I shall preserve with that Veneration which is due to whatever serves to perpetuate the Memory of Shakespear who lived the Prodigy of Nature, and the peculiar boast of Stratford upon Avon. I beg by your means to return my thanks to the Mayor and the rest of the Gentlemen of the Corporation, and to express to them how sensible I am of this Public Mark of their Favour, totally unmerited by me; and be pleased to assure them that I shall guard with the utmost zeal this Relique of their ever-memorable Tree, not more in Remembrance of the Hands which planted it than of those from which I received it. I am, with the most sincere wishes for the Prosperity of your Town and Corporation, Sr. your obliged and obedt. hble. servt. G.K.

Together with a card on which is written :

This inkstand was given to Mr. White by Mrs. Keate (by will) the widow of the gentleman to whom it was presented in May 1769 by the Corporation of Stratford-on-Avon—Acton Hill, 1836.

The absolutely complete pedigree of this elegant relic of the famous Mulberry Tree (as attested by all the original documents accompanying it) renders it of quite unique value and interest.

- 566 A PORTRAIT OF SHAKESPEARE, carved from the wood of the mulberry tree planted by Shakespeare, 10 in. in height by  $6\frac{1}{2}$  in width

* * On the figure itself and the base of this statuette, the following authentication is stamped four times : "SHAKESPEARS WOOD, Sharp, Stratford-on-Avon." Thomas Sharp was a clock-maker of Stratford-on-Avon, and purchased the wood of Shakespeare's mulberry tree when it was cut down in 1759. The present portrait was owned by the proprietor of the Shakespeare Hotel, Stratford-on-Avon, in 1799. A chair made from the Mulberry Tree sold in these rooms, in March 1903, for £145.

- 567 SHAKESPEARE. The "UNKNOWN PORTRAIT OF SHAKSPERE," which was reproduced and described in Walford's Antiquarian for Oct. 1885. Painted on a panel of oak measuring 23 in. by 14 in.

* * The following account of this most remarkable portrait is taken from the Antiquarian :—

A portrait of William Shakspeare taken when he lay on his death-bed, or at least when he was "sick unto death," may be pronounced a novelty to most educated Englishmen; and this it is our editorial privilege to present to our readers in facsimile. A single glance at the portrait will detect the lineaments of a man borne down by sickness; the face pale and wan, and the eyes deep sunk, but retaining their wonted lustre. The high forehead is brought into prominence by the dark background of the painting, which also brings into relief the ample collar and other portions of the dress. . . .

The painting looks stiff and rigid, and is evidently the work of an amateur, probably dashed off on the spur of the moment, just when an opportunity offered, no pains having been taken even to prepare the panel for the work in hand. The inscription beneath the portrait, painted on another board, runs as follows :—

"How speake thatte Browe soe pensive yet serene
The lucidde Teare juste startynge to thine eyne
Dost thou nowe dwelle onne Romeo's ill starr'd love
Or doth the tortured Moore thy passion move
None so. Alasse no more shall phantsie's creatures
Adumbrate or enshroude the Poete's Features
To realle Illes hys Frame nowe falles a Preye
He feels approche the Ev'ninge of Lyffe's Daye—
And e'er another Dawne arise to cheere
Lyfe's busie Sonnes may droppe poore Wil Shakspeare
Sic cecinit Cygnus Avonice et obiit 23 Aprilis 1616 ÆT 52."

On the back of the portrait is another inscription, written evidence, short of positive proof, that it is a veritable portrait of Shakespeare, taken from "the life," for the contention of its believers is that it would be impossible for the portrait, bearing as it does upon the features visible signs of illness, to have been painted from memory. It is recorded that the end of the Poet was at last very sudden, that he was bed-ridden during some time, and that probably two of the three signatures to his Will were executed in bed in a recumbent posture. The former owner of this picture, the J. H. of 1750, was possibly John Hathaway, of Stratford-on-Avon, who died in 1753, aged 73.

- 568 MOTTLEY (JOHN) List of all the Dramatic Authors, with some account of their Lives, and of all the Dramatic Pieces ever published in the English language to the year 1747; also Scanberbeg, or Love and Liberty, a tragedy, by Thomas Whincop, portraits, original calf 8vo. 1847

* * Richard Farmer's (the Shakespearean Commentator's) copy, and evidently prepared by him for an enlarged and much revised edition (never published). Nearly every one of the 260 pages is covered with additions and corrections in his autograph; the division devoted to Shakespeare is particularly important, as Farmer has noted against each play his opinion of the date of its composition by Shakespeare. He has also added information concerning Field and Shakespeare, Measure for Measure, Much Ado about Nothing, Shakespeare and Rowley, Love's Labour Won, the inscription on the Monument at Stratford, the The Contention between York and Lancaster, Fair Em the Miller's Daughter of Manchester, Henry V, Richard Tarlton, King Lear, The Merry Devil of Edmonton, Measure for Measure, Romeo and Juliet, Mucedorus and Amadine, Shakespeare's Shylock, &c.

FOLIO.

- 639 Beaumont (Francis) and John Fletcher. Comedies and Tragedies written by Francis Beaumont and John Fletcher, Gentlemen, never printed before, and now published by the Authours Originall Copies . . . London, printed for Humphrey Robinson . . . and for Humphrey Moseley . . . a superb copy, probably the finest and largest in existence,  $13\frac{3}{8} \times 1\frac{5}{16}$  in.) several leaves being uncut ; with a most brilliant impression of the portrait, which is of the first state ("vates duplex" in the third line of verses instead of "Vates Duplex" and the name "J. Berkenhead" engraved in larger letters than in the second state) The Wild-Goose Chase, 1652, bound up at the end, russia extra, joints, g. e. by Hering, who bound it for Henry Drury 1647-52
- * * FIRST COLLECTED EDITION of Beaumont and Fletcher's works, edited by James Shirley. In the dedication to Philip Earl of Pembroke, to whom the first folio edition of Shakespeare was also dedicated, reference is made to "the flowing compositions of the then expired sweet Swan of Avon Shakespeare." Shirley, in his address to the reader, seems strangely forgetful of Shakespeare when he asserts that this book is "without flattery, the greatest Monument of the Scene that Time and Humanity have produced, and must live, not only the Crowne and sole Reputation of our owne, but the stayne of all other Nations and Languages." Humphrey Moseley claims that all the pieces of Beaumont and Fletcher are included except The Wild-Goose Chase. The Library of the Rev. H. Drury was disposed of in 1827, and is referred to in Fletcher's "English Book Collectors." Inserted is a manuscript list of Plays as issued in quarto and in the above folio, which is probably in the autograph of the Rev. H. Drury.
- 640 Chaucer. The Works of Geoffrey Chaucer and others, being a reproduction in facsimile of the first collected edition, 1532, from the Copy in the British Museum, with an Introduction by W. W. Skeat, rough calf, ties, uncut, as issued n. d.

- 641 Doves Press. The English Bible, containing the Old Testament and the New, translated out of the Original Tongues by special Command of His Majesty King James the First and now reprinted with the text revised by a collation of its early and other principal editions, and edited by the late F. H. Scrivener, 5 vol. vellum, uncut
Hammersmith, 1903-5
- 642 Shakespeare (W.) Comedies, Histories, and Tragedies, being a reproduction in facsimile of the First Folio Edition, 1623, from the Chatsworth Copy, with introduction and Census of Copies by Sidney Lee, rough calf, ties, uncut, as issued
Oxford, 1902
- 643 SHAKESPEARE (WILLIAM) MR. WILLIAM SHAKESPEAR'S COMEDIES, HISTORIES, AND TRAGEDIES, published according to the true original copies, THE THIRD IMPRESSION, and unto this impression is added Seven Plays never before printed in folio, viz. Pericles Prince of Tyre; The London Prodigal; The History of Thomas, Ld. Cromwell; Sir John Oldcastle, Lord Cobham; The Puritan Widow; A Yorkshire Tragedy; The Tragedy of Loocrine; THE THIRD FOLIO, blank margins of portrait mended, fragment of two letters restored in the verses below, title, dedication, and last leaf in facsimile, and a few leaves mended, and having some words restored, otherwise sound, clean, and good copy, in calf, bound about 100 years ago (measuring  $12\frac{1}{2} \times 8\frac{1}{2}$  ins.) enclosed in red levant morocco case
Printed for P. C. 1664
- * * * Apart from the few defects mentioned, this is a very good copy of the scarce Third Folio, WITH THE GENUINE PORTRAIT AND VERSES. Next to the First Edition this is the most difficult to find.
- 644 SHAKESPEARE (W.) MR. WILLIAM SHAKESPEAR'S COMEDIES, HISTORIES, AND TRAGEDIES, published according to the true original copies, unto which is added seven Plays, never before printed in Folio; the FOURTH EDITION, portrait, fine impression, with Verses, contemporary calf, enclosed in a blue levant, richly tooled case, lettered, from the Lambard Library
London, for H. Herringham, E. Brewster, & R. Bentley, 1685
- \* \* \* AN UNUSUALLY FINE AND CRISP COPY, with rough leaves measuring  $14\frac{7}{16}$  in. by  $9\frac{3}{16}$  in.
- 645 SPENSER (E.) THE FAERIE QUEEN, THE SHEPHEARD'S CALENDAR, together with the other Works of England's Arch-Poët Edm. Spenser, collected into one volume, and carefully corrected, FIRST COLLECTED EDITION, title within woodcut border, and woodcuts, old calf gilt, enclosed in levant morocco case by Zaehnsdorf, FINE LARGE COPY
Printed by H. L. for Mathew Lownes, 1611
- * * * The first collected edition of Spenser's poems, and supposed to have been edited by his friend, Gabriel Harvey. The border to the title has recently been brought into prominent notice by the Shakespeare-Bacon theorists. They assume that the male and the female figures on each side of the boar represent the Earl of Leicester and Queen Elizabeth supporting Bacon.

OTHER PROPERTIES.

QUARTO.

- 646 Herodian. Smyth (Nic.) The History of Herodian . . . treating of the Romaine emperors after Marcus, translated oute of Greeke into Latin by Angelus Politianus, and out of Latin into Englyshe by Nicholas Smyth, FIRST EDITION, black letter, *woodcut title and fine woodcut floreated initials small hole (faulty paper) in sign. - 665 Lilly (William) Guillelmi Lilli Angli Rudimenta (at end) Carmen ad Dicipulos de Moribus, black letter, morocco extra, g. e.

Richard Pynson, 1512 or 1513

* * PERHAPS UNIQUE. There can be but little doubt that this is the earliest appearance in print of Lilly's famous Grammar (which is referred to by Shakespeare in the Taming of the Shrew). This extremely curious early English school book commences: "To make latyn when I have an englishe to be tourned into latyn I shall reherse it twyes or thryes and loke out ye verbe." This appears to be the ONLY COPY KNOWN of this issue. It consists of eight leaves only, therefore its practical extinction can be easily understood.

- 666 Livre de la Chasse, par Gaston III, Conte de Foix, Seigneur de Bearn, from a Manuscript in the Collection of Sir Thomas Phillipps, Bart. of Middlehill, edited by H. Dryden, buckram, uncut Daventry, 1844 immortalised by Shakespeare in his character of Justice Shallow. Through Sir Richard's marriage with Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Henry Cock, and widow of Sir Robert Oxenbridge, he became life-owner of Broxbournbury, Hertfordshire. He was knighted at Whitehall, Jan. 1617-18, and created a baronet on March 2 following. The third coat-armour of present interest and importance is that of Edward Alleyn. This Edward Alleyn must have been some near relation to the famous actor of the same name who died in 1626, the coat-armour being dated 1629.

Luciano ad M. Ruthalum præfatio, VERY FINE COPY, old calf Ex officina Ascensiana ad Idus Novemb. 1506

* * A volume of excessive rarity. This is a very fine and large copy of a volume not apt at first sight to attract attention. It is in fact a Latin translation of the Hecuba and Iphigenia of Euripides by Erasmus, followed by one of certain of the Dialogues of Lucian from the same hand, accompanied by Latin versions of four others by Sir Thomas More. The book was printed at Paris by Badius Ascensius in 1506. This is the earliest appearance of Sir Thomas More in print, preceding the Utopia by ten years. When Aldus, in 1507, reprinted, during the stay of Erasmus in Italy, the two dramas of Euripides, he did not include the Lucian. No record exists of this assuredly important publication of so eminent an Englishman as More, and indeed his early life is comparatively obscure and ill-dated. The Dictionary of National Biography cites the translation from Lucian, but rather vaguely, and omits to accentuate the special feature connected with it.

- 708 NELSON. MUSEUM WORSLEYANUM; or, a Collection of Antique Basso-Relievos, Bustos, Statues and Gems, with Views of Places in the Levant, taken on the spot in the years 1785, 6 and 7; Docti rationem Artis intelligunt, indocti voluptatem, Quin. lib. ix, 4, 2 vol. portrait and numerous fine engravings, old red morocco, richly tooled 1794

* * THESE SPLENDID VOLUMES ARE FROM THE LIBRARY OF ADMIRAL LORD NELSON, TO WHOM THEY WERE PRESENTED BY THE AUTHOR. A long inscription presenting them to Lord Nelson and a letter addressed to the great Admiral, both in the autograph of Sir R. Worsley, are in the volumes. Nelson gave them to Lady Hamilton, and they were sold in her sale in 1809 for 50 guineas. Only 100 copies were printed for Sir Richard Worsley's friends and public institutions. The present example has the rare leaf printed on vellum, which was issued with but two or three copies.

- 709 NEWCASTLE (DUCHESS OF) PLAYES (no portrait, but facsimile of same inserted), FIRST EDITION, pp. 679 and 2 leaves at the end, address to the reader, and leaf of errata, A. - 725 Pole (Reginald, Cardinal) Ad Henricum VIII pro ecclesiasticæ Unitatis Defensione Libri IV, FIRST EDITION, old half vellum
Romæ, A. Bladus (Typis Aldinis) s. a. (sed circa 1536)
- * * This excessively rare and most important book for the ecclesiastical history of this country was privately printed by Cardinal Pole (just after the trial and execution of Anne Boleyn), who distributed only a few copies as presents to the Pope and Cardinals. Pole promised Henry VIII not to distribute the work, and the King tried in vain to obtain a copy from the Cardinal. On obtaining one, Henry ordered Archbishop Cranmer and the other bishops to draw up an answer. Bishop Latimer preached against the work, and Henry tried to inveigle the Cardinal into England, offered 50,000 crowns for his head, and caused his brother to be arrested and executed.

OUTHEY (Robert) A. L. s. 4 pp. 4to, Feb. 23, 1804, to John May, Esq.

You probably have seen Ellis's Specimens of the Early English Poets, the book has sold very successfully and I am about to publish a supplementary or companion work, this will be preliminary essay on the state of our literature at the Restoration, referring more particularly to poetry as effected by that event. I informed you of my design to publish Madoc, as soon as that design was formed. I applied to Longman and have agreed that he shall publish it in quarto with engravings, and share the profit with me.

- 784 Pitt (William, Earl of Chatham) A. L. in the third person, 3 pp. Hayes, Sept. 24, 1774

Lord Chatham presents his best compliments to Mr. Sheriff Lee and desires to express many thanks to him for the favour of his very obliging attention in communicating the INSTRUCTIONS FROM PHILADELPHIA. A true friend and affectionate well-wisher to America cannot but lament extremely, that zeal over-heated by persecution has carried a suffering people, much, as I conceive, beyond the mark; To be restored to their Charters, and to give as they judge proper, their own money, were, it was thought, the essential object. Declining as they now do to recognize the supreme Authority of the Parliament of Great Britain to bind America by laws of trade and navigation, must it persevered in, disarm their Friends here, while it multiplies and strengthens their Enemies. Overstrained Authority on this side has united America in one Common Cause, pretensions and claims pushed to excess on the part of the Americans, may dispose and unite England to resist even their most just demands. The Cause of America which I have sincerely at heart, will I fear lose ground apace, on this side of the Atlantic as soon as these unadvised Instructions come to be more publicly known.

* * A UNIQUE AMERICAN REVOLUTIONARY DOCUMENT. This letter has been very skilfully repaired in the folds, but a small portion of the inner margins is missing. Possibly the most characteristic letter ever penned by the great Lord Chatham.

SEC. XIV
* * At the end of the MSS. occurs the following inscription in a contemporary English hand: "Liber Mōn. beatę Marię Stiqz. Egwigni Ep̄. et Confessorio Enesime (?) Quicunque illud aliena...vel hic titulum delendi anathema sit Johannes Norta (?) Juniore." On the opposite page, an inscription (temp. Q. Elizabeth) of "Samuel Kenricke Artium Baccalaureus Ædis Christi."
- 820 THACKERAY (W. M.) THE ORIGINAL MANUSCRIPT OF THACKERAY'S LECTURE ON CONGREVE AND ADDISON, consisting of 58 pages, 4to, two or three pages at the end are missing * * This manuscript (which is mostly in Miss Trulock's handwriting) is the identical copy used by Thackeray to lecture from when in the United States, and on page 20 are four lines in the autograph of Thackeray, which do not appear in the printed version. Pages 57 and 58 are wholly in the autograph of Thackeray, and bear eight unpublished lines. Two pages are in Mrs. Ritchie's handwriting. There are numerous alterations from the printed version, such as page 19, "Gather whilst you may the flowers," does not appear in the printed version. Page 37, the words "To be a Bishop," in the manuscript is altered "To the Church," in printed version. Page 48, the words "Emperor of Austria," in the manuscript is altered to "King of the Romans," in the printed version. There are many other minor variations between the manuscript and printed version.

- 854 SHAKESPEARE'S (MR. WILLIAM) COMEDIES, HISTORIES AND TRAGEDIES, published according to the true Original copies, unto which is added Seven Plays never before printed in folio, the fourth edition, very brilliant impression of the portrait by Droeshout, with Ben Jonson's verses beneath, A REMARKABLY FINE AND SOUND COPY, genuine throughout, in the original calf binding
printed for H. Herringman, E. Brewster and R. Bentley, 1685
- \* \* This copy is unusually large, measuring  $14\frac{1}{4}$  in. by  $9\frac{1}{4}$  in., being both taller and broader than Mr. Halliwell-Phillipps' copy, which was described as being larger than the famous Britwell copy (the largest known to Lowndes). Thus the present copy must be one of the tallest in existence, it has a few uncut leaves; the misprints in this copy differ somewhat from the list given by Lowndes.
- 855 SHAKESPEARE. An inscription and signature "A wicked booke, W. Shakespeare," on a blank leaf (a j) of a 4to book, framed between two pieces of glass
- 856 Shakespeare. The original printed account of the Pageant organised in honour of the Second Commemorative Festival at Stratford-on-Avon of the Natal Day of Shakespeare, April 1830
- * * This rare broad-sheet covers 2 pp. folio, and bears the MS. signature of S. Gwinnett (the Secretary).
- 857 SHAKESPEARE. An old Portrait of William Shakespeare, three-quarter face, with moustache and beard, in large linen and lace collar, finely painted on oak panel, 12 in. by 10 in., and in good condition
- 858 Shakespeare. [Caryl (J.)] The English Princess, or the Death of Richard the III, a Tragedy written in 1666, and acted at the Duke of York's Theatre, FIRST EDITION, half morocco, large copy
sm. 4to. T. Dring, 1667
- 859 SHAKESPEARE. Halle (Edward) Chronicle. The Union of the two noble and illustrious Families of Lancastre and Yorke, &c. a copy of the original issue of 1548, wanting original title, but with printed title in old faced type inserted in its place, calf gilt 1548
- * * An extremely interesting copy of this scarce book, to which the indebtedness of Shakespeare is well known. It belonged at one time apparently to Sir Henry Sidney and his wife Mary, daughter of John Dudley, Earl of Warwick, as is attested by verses in manuscript at the end of "The Reign of Edward IV," and at end of "King Henry VII." There are also many MS. notes in another hand, believed to be that of their daughter Mary, Countess of Pembroke who was the mother of William Herbert. The copy has been carefully collated, and is found to be of the first issue, having at the end Grafton's colophon with the date of 1548; other owners of the book have been John Batty, Merchant Tailor, and John Fourney, who owned it in 1623. The portion of Henry VIII lacks leaves 111 and 112, but has leaf 113 in duplicate, having evidently been so bound up in the first instance, and some leaves are cropped, sold not subject to return.

- 860 SHAKESPEARE. Hanmer (Sir Thomas). THE ORIGINAL MANUSCRIPT (entirely in Sir Thomas Hanmer's autograph) of his Preface to his famous edition of Shakespeare's plays published in 1743

* * This most important manuscript, which is full of Sir Thomas' corrections and additions, covers 5 folio pages, very closely written. Sir Thomas Hanmer's splendid edition of Shakespeare was greatly eulogised by Dr. Dibdin who remarks that it "was proudly displayed in the libraries of the great and fashionable." An autograph letter of Hanmer's (4 pages 4to) accompanies the MS.

- 861 Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet. The Garden Scene Versified, set to Music, and Humbly Dedicated to Honourable Mrs. Milbank, by John Percy, mezzotint engraving on title representing a scene from the play, uncut printed for G. Goulding (1740-50)

- 862 SHAKESPEARE PORTRAITS. A Fine Collection of Seventeen Portraits of various sizes from 8vo to large folio; also a large engraving of the house in which Shakespeare was born, and a View of Stratford-on-Avon. The Portraits are as follows: 1. A Mezzotint after the Jansen portrait, engraved by Chas. Turner, "Mezzotinto Engraver in ordinary to His Majesty," 8vo, fine, 1824; 2. A Mezzotint after the Jansen portrait, proof before all letters; 3. A Stipple Engraving, after N. Hilliard, by T. W. Harland, with facsimile of Shakespeare's signature, 8vo; 4. A Line Engraving, after the Droeshout portrait, india paper proof; 5. An Impression taken from the portrait by Wm. Marshall, contained in the 1640 edition of Shakespeare's Poems, 8vo, on india paper; 6. Another Impression of the Marshall portrait, 8vo; 7. A Stipple Engraving, taken from his monument in the Church at Stratford-upon-Avon, 8vo; 8. His Portrait, engraved from a medal, representing Shakespeare between the Dramatick Muse and the Genius of Painting. The medal was struck "In Grateful Commemoration of the Generous Support given by the Subscribers to the Great National Edition of that Immortal Poet, by I. I. & J. N. Boydell and G. and W. Nicoll, 1803," by Scriven and Girtin, 8vo, 1804; 9. Monument of Shakespeare, in Westminster Abbey, 8vo; 10. A Stipple Engraving, from the monumental bust at Stratford-upon-Avon, after a cast by G. Bullock, engraved by W. T. Fry, 4to, 1817; 11. A Line Engraving, after the Chandos portrait, by R. A. Artlett, 4to, very fine; 12. A Line Engraving, 4to; 13. A Lithograph, by Fredericka Steinhoeffer, "After the bust in the possession of R. Muspratt, Esq. Liverpool," 4to, open-letter proof, on india paper; 14. A Stipple Engraving, after the Stratford bust, dedicated to the King (George IV), engraved by J. S. Agar from an original drawing, by A. Wivell, proof on india paper; 15. A Photo-Lithograph, after the Droeshout portrait, with the verses by Ben Jonson reproduced beneath, engraved from the portrait in the first folio (1623), belonging to the Earl of Ellesmere, 4to, 1864; 16. A Stipple Engraving, shewing Shakespeare seated upon a rock between the Dramatick Muse and the Genius of Painting. The following lines are engraven beneath:

"He was a Man, take him for all in all,
I shall not look upon his like again."

"The Alto Relievo in the Front of the Shakespeare Gallery, Pall Mall," after I. Banks, by Ben Smith, folio, 1796; 17. A Lithograph,

Edinburgh, Imprinted by Andrew Hart and Richard Lawson, 1608
- * * The exceedingly rare Edinburgh edition. The volume is dedicated to "William, Earle of Pembroke," and "Philip, Earle of Montgomery," two of Shakespeare's patrons. This dedication is signed R. C., probably meant for Richard Carew, the first translator of Tasso into English. The present is the Cole, Farmer, Jolley and Crossley copy of this famous book. Farmer's signature is on the fly-leaf together with a long account in his autograph of what he styles this "Liber Rarior." Beloe in his "Anecdotes of Literature and Scarce Books" (vol. VI, pp. 231-431), gives an account of this work, stating that the Edinburgh edition is classed among the English books of rarity, adding: "I am not acquainted with many books which are more replete both with curious anecdote and entertaining information than this translation." "A Shakespearean book."—Hazlitt. "The phraseology of Shakespeare is better illustrated in this work than in any other book existing."—Caldecott.

The Property of M. le Marquis de La Fayette.

- 886 WASHINGTON (GEORGE) the distinguished American Patriot, A. L. s. (with initials at conclusion of Postscript), 11 pp. 4to, Mount Vernon, 25 Dec. 1788. A previous signature has unfortunately been removed, but without inflicting further injury. A SUPERB LETTER OF THE HIGHEST HISTORICAL IMPORTANCE, DEALING WITH THE RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES, FRANCE AND GREAT BRITAIN, PROBABLY THE FINEST EXAMPLE EVER OFFERED FOR SALE. It is impossible to do justice to this Letter without giving it in extenso, every word being of interest. But here are a few typical extracts:

... a party exists in the United States formed by a combination of causes, who oppose the government in all its measures, and are determined (as all their conduct evinces) by clogging its wheels, indirectly to change the nature of it, and to subvert the Constitution. To effect this, no means which have a tendency to accomplish their purposes, are left unessayed. The friends of the Government who are anxious to maintain its Neutrality and to preserve the Country in Peace, and to adopt measures to produce these desirable ends, are charged by them as being Monarchists—Aristocrats and Infractioners of the Constitution—which according to their interpretation of it would be a mere cypher—while they arrogated to themselves (until the eyes of the People began to discover how outrageously they had been treated in their Commercial concerns by the directory of France, and that that was a ground on which they could no longer tread) the sole merit of being the Friends of France, when, in fact, they had no more regard for that Nation than for the Grand Turk, farther than their own views were promoted by it, denouncing those who differed from their opinion—whose principles are purely American—and whose sole view was to observe a strict Neutrality, with acting under British Influence;—with being directed by her Councils;—nay with being her Pensioners . . . no one during the whole of my Administration, laboured more incessantly, and with more sincerity and zeal than I did, to avoid this, and to render every justice—nay favour to France consistent with the Neutrality which had been proclaimed to the World . . . But Neutrality was not the point at which France was aiming;—for whilst it was crying Peace—Peace—and pretending that they did not wish us to be embroiled in their quarrel with Great Britain, they were pursuing measures in this country so repugnant to its Sovereignty, and so incompatible with every principle of Neutrality, as must inevitably have produced a War with the latter . . . But herein they have not only deceived France, but were deceived themselves, as the event has proved, for no sooner did the Yeomanry of this Country come to a right unders anding of the nature of the dispute, than they rose as one man with a tender of their services—their lives—and their fortunes—to support the government of their choice, and to defend their country. This has produced a declaration from them (how sincere let others judge) that if the French should attempt to invade this country, that they themselves would be amongst the foremost to repel the attack . . . After my Valedictory Address to the People of the United States, you would, no doubt, be somewhat surprised to hear that I had again consented to gird on the Sword—But having struggled eight or nine years against the Invasion of our Rights by one Power and to establish an Independence of it, I could not remain an unconcerned Spectator of the attempts of another Power to accomplish the same object, though in a different way, with less preparations—indeed without any at all.

- 887 Washington (George) A. L. (conclusion missing) 4 full pp. 4to, Mount Vernon, 8 Oct. 1798, to the same, of great interest. In the first part of the Letter he commiserates Lafayette on his unjust imprisonment, etc. He proceeds:

With what concerns myself personally, I shall not take up your time, further than to add, that I have once more retreated to the shades of my own Vine and Figtree, where I shall remain with best vows for the prosperity of that country, for whose happiness I have toiled many years, to establish its Independence—Constitution—and Laws—and for the good of mankind in general, until the days of my sojournment, wh<sup>h</sup> cannot be many, are accomplished. Having bid final adieu to the walks of public life, and meaning to withdraw myself from the Politics thereof, I shall refer you to Mr. Frestal and George who (at the same time that they have from prudential considerations, avoided all interference in the Politics of the Country) cannot have been inattentive observers of what was passing among us, to give you a general view of our situation, and of the party, which in my opinion, has disturbed the Peace and tranquillity of it.

- 888 Washington (George) Copies on thin paper of portions of the two preceding Letters, 3 pp. 4to, one exhibiting the signature removed from lot 886

- 889 Washington (George) A. L. s. 3 pp. 4to, Philadelphia, 22 Nov. 1795, to George Washington Lafayette (son of the General), a kind fatherly letter of advice written during Lafayette's imprisonment, interesting and very typical, commencing:

My dear Young Friend...These considerations, and a journey which I was in the act of commencing when I received your letter (and from wh<sup>ch</sup> I have not long since been returned to this City) restrained me from writing to you at the time, but I imposed upon Mr. Cabot, a great man of character and one in whose discretion I could place entire confidence, the agreeable office of assuring you, in my name, of my warmest affection and support—of my determination to stand in the place of a father and friend to you under all circumstances, requesting him at the same time to make arrangements with Mr. Frestal for supplying your immediate wants—and moreover that he would add thereto everything consolatory on my part—all of which I now renew to you in the most unequivocal terms; for you may be assured that the sincere and affectionate attachment I had to your unfortunate father—my friend and compatriot in arms—I will extend to you, his son. Do not therefore ascribe my silence from the period of your interview with Mr. Cabot to a wrong cause; etc.

- 890 Washington (George) A. L. s. 2 pp. 4to, Philadelphia, 31 March, 1796, to the same

My dear Sir—Your letter of the 28th inst<sup>t</sup> was received yesterday. The enclosures which accompanied it, evidence much discretion, and your conduct therein meets my entire approbation. In the early part of this month I put a letter into the hands of Col. Hamilton, inviting you to this place, and expected, until your letter of the above date was received, to have embraced you, under my own roof, tomorrow or next day. As the period for this seems to be more distant from the purport of your enquiries, I again repeat my former request; and wish that, without delay, you and Mr. Frestal with your baggage etc. would proceed immediately to the City, and to my house, where a room is prepared for you and him. Under expectation of your doing this, it is as unnecessary as it might be improper, to go more into detail until I have the pleasure to see you;—and to render every service in my power to the son of my friend, for whom I have always entertained the purest Affections. These are too strong not to extend themselves to you. Therefore believe me to be, as I really am, Sincerely and affectionately yours, G. WASHINGTON.

- 891 WASHINGTON (George) A. L. s. 4 pp. 4to, Mount Vernon, 25th Dec. 1798, to the same, FINE AND IMPORTANT LETTER, refers to the long letter written to his Father, and continues :

At the time you left this country you could not, less than I did, believe that in the course of events any occurrence could arise which would again take me from the walks of Mount Ver<sup>n</sup>. But the injuries we have received, and are threatened with, have induced me once more (if occasion should require it) to tread the thorny path of public life, and for this purpose I have accepted a Commission to command the Armies of the United States if, unfortunately, we should be forced into a War. You acquaintance, Laurence Lewis, is appointed Captain of a Troop of Light Dragoons. . . . Washington Curtis preferring a military career to literary pursuits, is appointed Cornet in Lewis's Troop, and Washington Craik has a Lieutenancy. Young Carroll of Carrollton will be a volunteer aid of mine, and Mr. Lear is my Secretary. Young gentlemen of the first families, fortunes and expectations in the United States are offering their services; but I hope, and most ardently pray, that the Directory of your Country will not, by a perseverance in the insults and indignities which they have heaped on this, make it necessary to resort to arms to repel an Invasion, or to do ourselves justice. I can undertake to affirm that necessity only will drive us to it, although I am but just returned from a six weeks' visit to Philadelphia to make arrangements there for its eventuality. . . . Alexandria continues to thrive, and the public buildings in the federal City go on well -- and many private ones are commencing for the accommodation of the Members of Congress and Officers of Government, preparatory to the removal of the Seat of the Government to that place.

- 892 JEFFERSON (Thomas) Third President of the United States, A. L. s. 2 pp. 4to, Philadelphia, June 16, 1792, to General de Lafayette, FINE LETTER, commencing :

Behold you then, my dear friend, at the head of a great army, establishing the liberties of your country against a foreign enemy, may heaven favour your cause, and make you the channel thro' which it may pour it's favors. While you are exterminating the monster aristocracy and pulling out the teeth and fangs of its associate monarchy, a contrary tendency is discovered in some here, a sect has shown itself among us, who declare they espoused our new constitution, not as a good and sufficient thing itself, but only as a step to an English constitution . . . they got some imported associates from New York, and are puffed off by a tube of Agitators which have been hatched in a bed of corruption made up after the model of their beloved England . . . what are you doing for your colonies? they will be lost if not more effectually succoured, indeed no future efforts you can make will ever be able to reduce the blacks.

- 893 JEFFERSON (Thomas) A. L. s. 2½ pp. 4to, Monticello, July 8, 1811, to the same. Hopes for the grants of land to Lafayette in America; complains of the failure of his own health, &c.

- 894 JEFFERSON (Thomas) A. L. s. 3 pp. 4to, Monticello, Nov. 30th, 1813, with Postscript dated Dec. 14th, to the same, AN EXTREMELY FINE AND INTERESTING LETTER, speaks of the establishment of manufactories in the U.S. so that British goods may no longer be needed at the conclusion of the present War, and gives a detailed account of the Military Operations since its outbreak, continues :

Genl. Wilkinson was entering the Lake St. Francis on his way to Montreal where he would land within 3 or 4 days and not meet a resistance which gives us any apprehension. Between that place and Quebec there is neither post nor armed man. Kingston was wisely left to fall by itself. The St. Lawrence to the walls of Quebec being ours whenever the season will open it to us, the last place will never be worth the blood it would cost, cut off from subsistence by the loss of the upper Country, it must be evacuated by its inhabitants; our quarters for this winter will probably be in Montreal.

- 895 JEFFERSON (Thomas) A. L. s. 2½ pp. 4to, Dec. 8, 1813, apparently to Madame de Lafayette, a curious letter, showing his great antipathy to England's rulers

The "Intercepted Letters," a later English publication of great wit and humor, has put them to their proper use by holding them up as butts for the ridicule and contempt of mankind. Yet by such worthless beings is a great nation to be governed and even made to defy their old King because he is only a fool and a maniac, and to forgive and forget his having lost to them a great and flourishing empire, added 900 millions sterling to their debt, for which the fee simple of the whole island would not sell, if offered farm by farm at public auction, and increased their annual taxes from 8 to 70 millions, more than the whole rent roll of the island.

- 896 JEFFERSON (Thomas) A. L. s. 7½ pp. 4to, Monticello, Feb. 14, 1815, to General de Lafayette, FINE AND INTENSELY INTERESTING LETTER, giving his views on Napoleon and the French Revolution, and an account of the progress of the war with Great Britain

The 3rd year has been a continued series of victories, to wit, of Brown and Scott at Chippeway, of the same at Niagara, of Gaines over Drummond at Fort Erie, that of Brown over Drummond at the same place, the capture of another fleet on Lake Champlain by McDonough, the entire defeat of their army under Prevost, on the same day by McComb, and now recently their defeats at New Orleans by Jackson, Coffee and Carroll, with the loss of 4000 men out of 9600, with their two Generals, Packingham and Gibbs, killed, and a third, Keane, wounded, mortally as is said.

- 897 JEFFERSON (Thomas) A. L. s. 3 pp. 4to, Monticello, May 17, 1816, to the same, fine letter on literary topics and on recent events

I believe the loss of the battle of Waterloo was the salvation of France. Had Bonaparte obtained the victory, his talents, his egoism and destitution of all moral principle would have rivetted a military despotism on your necks.

- 898 JEFFERSON (Thomas) A. L. s. 3 pp. 4to, Monticello, May 14, 1817, to the same

The British war has left us in debt, but that is a cheap price for the good it has done us; the establishment of the necessary manufactures among ourselves, the proof that our Government is solid, can stand the shock of war, and is superior even to civil schism, are precious facts for us, and of these the strongest proofs were furnished when, with four Eastern States tied to us as dead to living bodies, all doubt was removed as to the achievements of the war, had it continued, but its best effect has been the complete suppression of party.

- 899 JEFFERSON (Thomas) A. L. s. 1¾ pp. 4to, Monticello, Nov. 23, 1818, to the same

Our Government is now so firmly put on its republican tack, that it will not be easily monarchised by forms. You have made a mighty noise in Europe about our taking possession of some posts in Florida, the President's message, delivered a few days ago, will set you right on that subject, etc.

- 900 JEFFERSON (T.) A. L. s. 1 p. 4to, Monticello, March 22, 1821, to the same

- 901 JEFFERSON (T.) A. L. s. 2 pp. 4to, Monticello, Oct. 28, 1822, to the same, fine letter, evidencing his devotion to Lafayette, and giving some interesting details of current politics in America

- 902 JEFFERSON (T.) A. L. s. 1 p. 4to, Monticello, Sept. 3, 1824, to the same

The mail, my dear Friend, succeeding that which brought us the welcome news of your arrival on our shores, brought that of your being to proceed immediately to the North. I delayed, therefore, till you should turn Southwards to meet you with my sincere congratulations on your safe passage and restoration to those who love you more than any people on earth, indeed, I fear they will kill you with their kindness, so fatiguing and exhausting must be the ceremonies they force upon you.

919 SHELLEY (P. B.) LETTERS, with an Introductory Essay by Robert Browning, calif. t. e. g. UNCUT 8vo. Moxon, 1852

* * This collection of Shelley Letters was one of the most ingenious literary forgeries of modern times, so clever, not only in its imitation of handwriting, but in style and circumstances, as to have deceived the very elect. The distinguished author of "Paracelsus" was induced to prefix an introductory Essay of 44 pages on the life and genius of Shelley. The genuineness of the letters was first called in question by Mr. F. T. Palgrave, who saw the book at Mr. Tennyson's house, and accidentally opened it at a passage which he recognized as taken from an article contributed by his father to the "Quarterly Review." Other tests were then applied, the post-marks were carefully examined, and little by little the network of fraud was unravelled. The book was rigidly suppressed and destroyed, only a few copies had got abroad, and it now very rarely occurs for sale. Inserted in the present copy are the following additions :

1. A forged Letter, 3 pp. 4to, signed P. B. Shelley, addressed to Lord Byron, dated Pisa, Sept. 4th, 1821, entirely in reference to Queen Mab
2. A forged Letter, 3 pp. 4to, signed N. Byron (Lord Byron) addressed to T. Curtis, Esq. Pisa, dated Aug. 5, 1822, in reference to Paradise Lost; both these letters were forged by "George Byron," who also forged and sold the letters published in 1852
3. Five Letters in the Autograph of George Gordon Byron (the forger), who was stated to be the son of Lord Byron and "The Maid of Athens," these letters, dated from 1846-7, state that he is a son of the Poet, and deal with his proposed "Life" of Lord Byron, for which he seeks unpublished material, especially original letters (his forgeries were, of course, based on letters obtained in this manner), inter alia he states that his proposed "Life" will cost £2000, it is to be in 3 thick royal 8vo volumes, with upwards of 20 plates
4. A. L. s. March 18, 1852, from W. White (who bought the forged letters) to the editor of "The Literary Gazette"
5. A. L. March 27, 1852, from the editor of "The Literary Gazette" to Sir F. Madden of the British Museum, in reference to Mr. White
6. A. L. s. (original draft), March 29, 1852, from Sir Frederick Madden (of the British Museum) to the editor of "The Literary Gazette," entirely in reference to the forged Shelley letters
7. A. L. s. (original draft), March 29, 1852, of Sir F. Madden to Mr. White, on the same subject
8. A. L. s. March 30, 1852, of W. White to Sir F. Madden, also in reference to the forged letters
9. A. L. s. March 30, 1852, from W. White, to the editor of "The Literary Gazette," on the same subject
10. A. L. s. March 30, 1852, from Lovell Reeve (editor of "The Literary Gazette"), to Sir F. Madden, also in reference to the forged letters (with draft of Sir F. Madden's reply)
11. A. L. s. April 1, 1852, from the editor of "The Athenæum" (W. J. Thoms) to Sir F. Madden, on the same subject

12. A. L. s. April 3, 1852, from Reeve to Sir F. Madden, on the same subject (with draft of Madden's reply)
  13. Original Draft of Madden's letter to Thoms, dated 13 April, 1852, vindicating his action in regard to the Shelley forgeries
  14. Copy of White's letter to John Murray, April 14, 1852, in reference to forged Byron and Keats letters (by G. Byron)
  15. A. L. s. of Thoms to Madden, in reference to the Shelley forgeries
  16. Original Draft, dated 15 April, 1852, of Madden's letter to John Murray, on the same subject
  17. A. L. s. April 23, 1852, from John Murray to Sir F. Madden, in reference to "White's indiscretion"
  18. A. L. s. of S. L. Sotheby to Sir F. Madden, in reference to the forged Byron letters
  19. Sir F. Madden's Original Memoranda on the Byron and Shelley forgeries
  20. The Printed Pamphlet, published by White, explaining how he came to buy and sell the forged letters
  21. Cuttings from the "Athenæum" and "Literary Gazette" denouncing the forgeries, a complete collection
  22. The Original Advertisement of "Byron and the Byrons," by Geo. Byron, Esq.
  23. Original Subscription Ticket for above

Holograph Receipt, signed "Nelson & Bronte," for £2276 16s. 4d. received from Sir W. Hamilton, dated Merton, October 5, 1802

LORD NELSON. Holograph Letter signed "Nelson & Bronte," 3 pp. 4to, Victory, off Toulon, December 27, 1804, to Lord Robert Fitzgerald, British Ambassador at Lisbon, on the Rupture of the Negotiations with Spain, "which Country must be considered at War with Great Britain," also refers to the attitude of the Portuguese Ministers, who "are I fancy Buonaparte's men, therefore I expect no friendship from them," etc.

LORD NELSON. Holograph Letter signed "Nelson & Bronte," 2 pp. 4to, Victory, off Cape St. Vincent, May 11th, 1805, to Rear-Admiral Knight

Having heard with sorrow that you have gone into the Tagus with the Convoy of Troops, and therefore that your being off the Cape must be very uncertain, I can no longer defer my departure for the West Indies which you will keep a profound secret, whilst you remain at Lisbon, and give out that I am cruising to cover your Convoy. I have left the Royal Sovereign off Cape St. Vincent to join you, which will render you superior to anything ready for Sea either at Cadiz or Carthage, etc.

LORD NELSON. Holograph Letter signed "Nelson & Bronte," 4 pp. 4to, Victory, at Sea, June 15, 1805, to Lord Robert Fitzgerald, full of interesting and most complete details of his chase of the French and Spanish Fleets amongst the West Indian Islands, commencing from the time he arrived at Barbadoes, on June 4th, to the present time, "when I believe they are on their return to Europe," Nelson's eagerness in his chase and his chagrin at the enemy's escaping him is very apparent, but he says: "I do not yet despair of getting up with them before they arrive at Cadiz or Toulon," etc.

* * * The above enumerated designs are neatly mounted in a folio volume, bound in calf, which, from its condition, appears to date from a time contemporary with Blake. This is, undoubtedly, the collection of some early admirer, and possibly from the unique state of many of the plates, the prized possession of some friend of the artist himself. The collection is accompanied with a MS. catalogue by Mr. Wm. Muir (of Edmonton), the well-known Blake authority, together with his notes on the impression and rarity of the various engravings.

Other Properties.

- 922 BUNYAN (JOHN) THE ANVIL USED BY HIM WHEN WORKING AT HIS TRADE IN ELSTOW, HIS NAME, THE TOWN AND DATE BEING CUT INTO IT ON THE SIDES
J. BUNYAN,
HELSTOW,
1647.

* * This most interesting relic was bought by a marine store dealer at St. Neots from an ironmonger, who on succeeding to the old business of Mr. Carrington in that town, turned out and sold a large quantity of iron implements and tools as old scrap iron. St. Neots is only a few miles from Elstow, which was formerly known as Helmstow.

20. 923 HORE BEATE MARIE VIRGINIS CUM CALENDARIO. A RICHLY ILLUMINATED MANUSCRIPT ON VELLUM [FLEMISH-FRENCH] (162 ll. 8 by 4½ in.) written in bold gothic letters, long lines, 16 to a full page, rubrics in red, by a FRANCO-FLEMISH SCRIBE AND ILLUMINATOR; the calendar, quite full, written in blue, red and gold, with small miniatures of the occupations of the month and signs of the Zodiac, 21 LARGE AND VERY FINELY PAINTED AND ILLUMINATED MINIATURES, EVERY PAGE SURROUNDED BY RICH DECORATIVE BORDERS of conventional floreate scrolls, natural flowers, birds (including the peacock) and fruits, grotesque human and bestial figures, etc. numerous fine large and small illuminated ornamental initials and decorative details, bound in old French red morocco (17th Cent.) covered in RICH CONVENTIONAL FLOREATE SCROLLS, with coronetted arms (a greyhound courant on shield, 2 greyhounds rampant as supporters), greyhound courant on back large 8vo. SEC. XV

* * A VERY RICHLY DECORATED AND EXTRAORDINARY FRANCO-FLEMISH MANUSCRIPT. The Miniatures are by two different Artists. There are 4 remarkable Miniatures of the four Evangelists at the beginning. A Miniature of the "Surgite Mortuorum" is extraordinary; the Deity seated in a deep blue sky with cherubim on each side, groups of male and female Saints in the lower heaven; naked souls departing to heaven or hell below. Some of the miniatures have fine interiors, others are landscapes. In one or two instances the miniatures are rubbed, and in one apparently unfinished. Some Prayers of the Virgin are in French. A MOST INTERESTING AND WELL-PRESERVED BOOK OF HOURS. It may have been executed in Tours by two artists: French and Flemish.

10. 924 HORE BEATE MARIE VIRGINIS, cum Calendario, FLEMISH MANUSCRIPT ON VELLUM (276 ll. 5 by 3¾ in.) written in gothic letters, red rubrics, long lines, 17 to a full page; calendar in red and black within borders of natural flowers on gold grounds, with small miniatures of the Occupations of the Months and single figures representing the signs of the Zodiac; in the text are 50 fine painted and illuminated borders of
